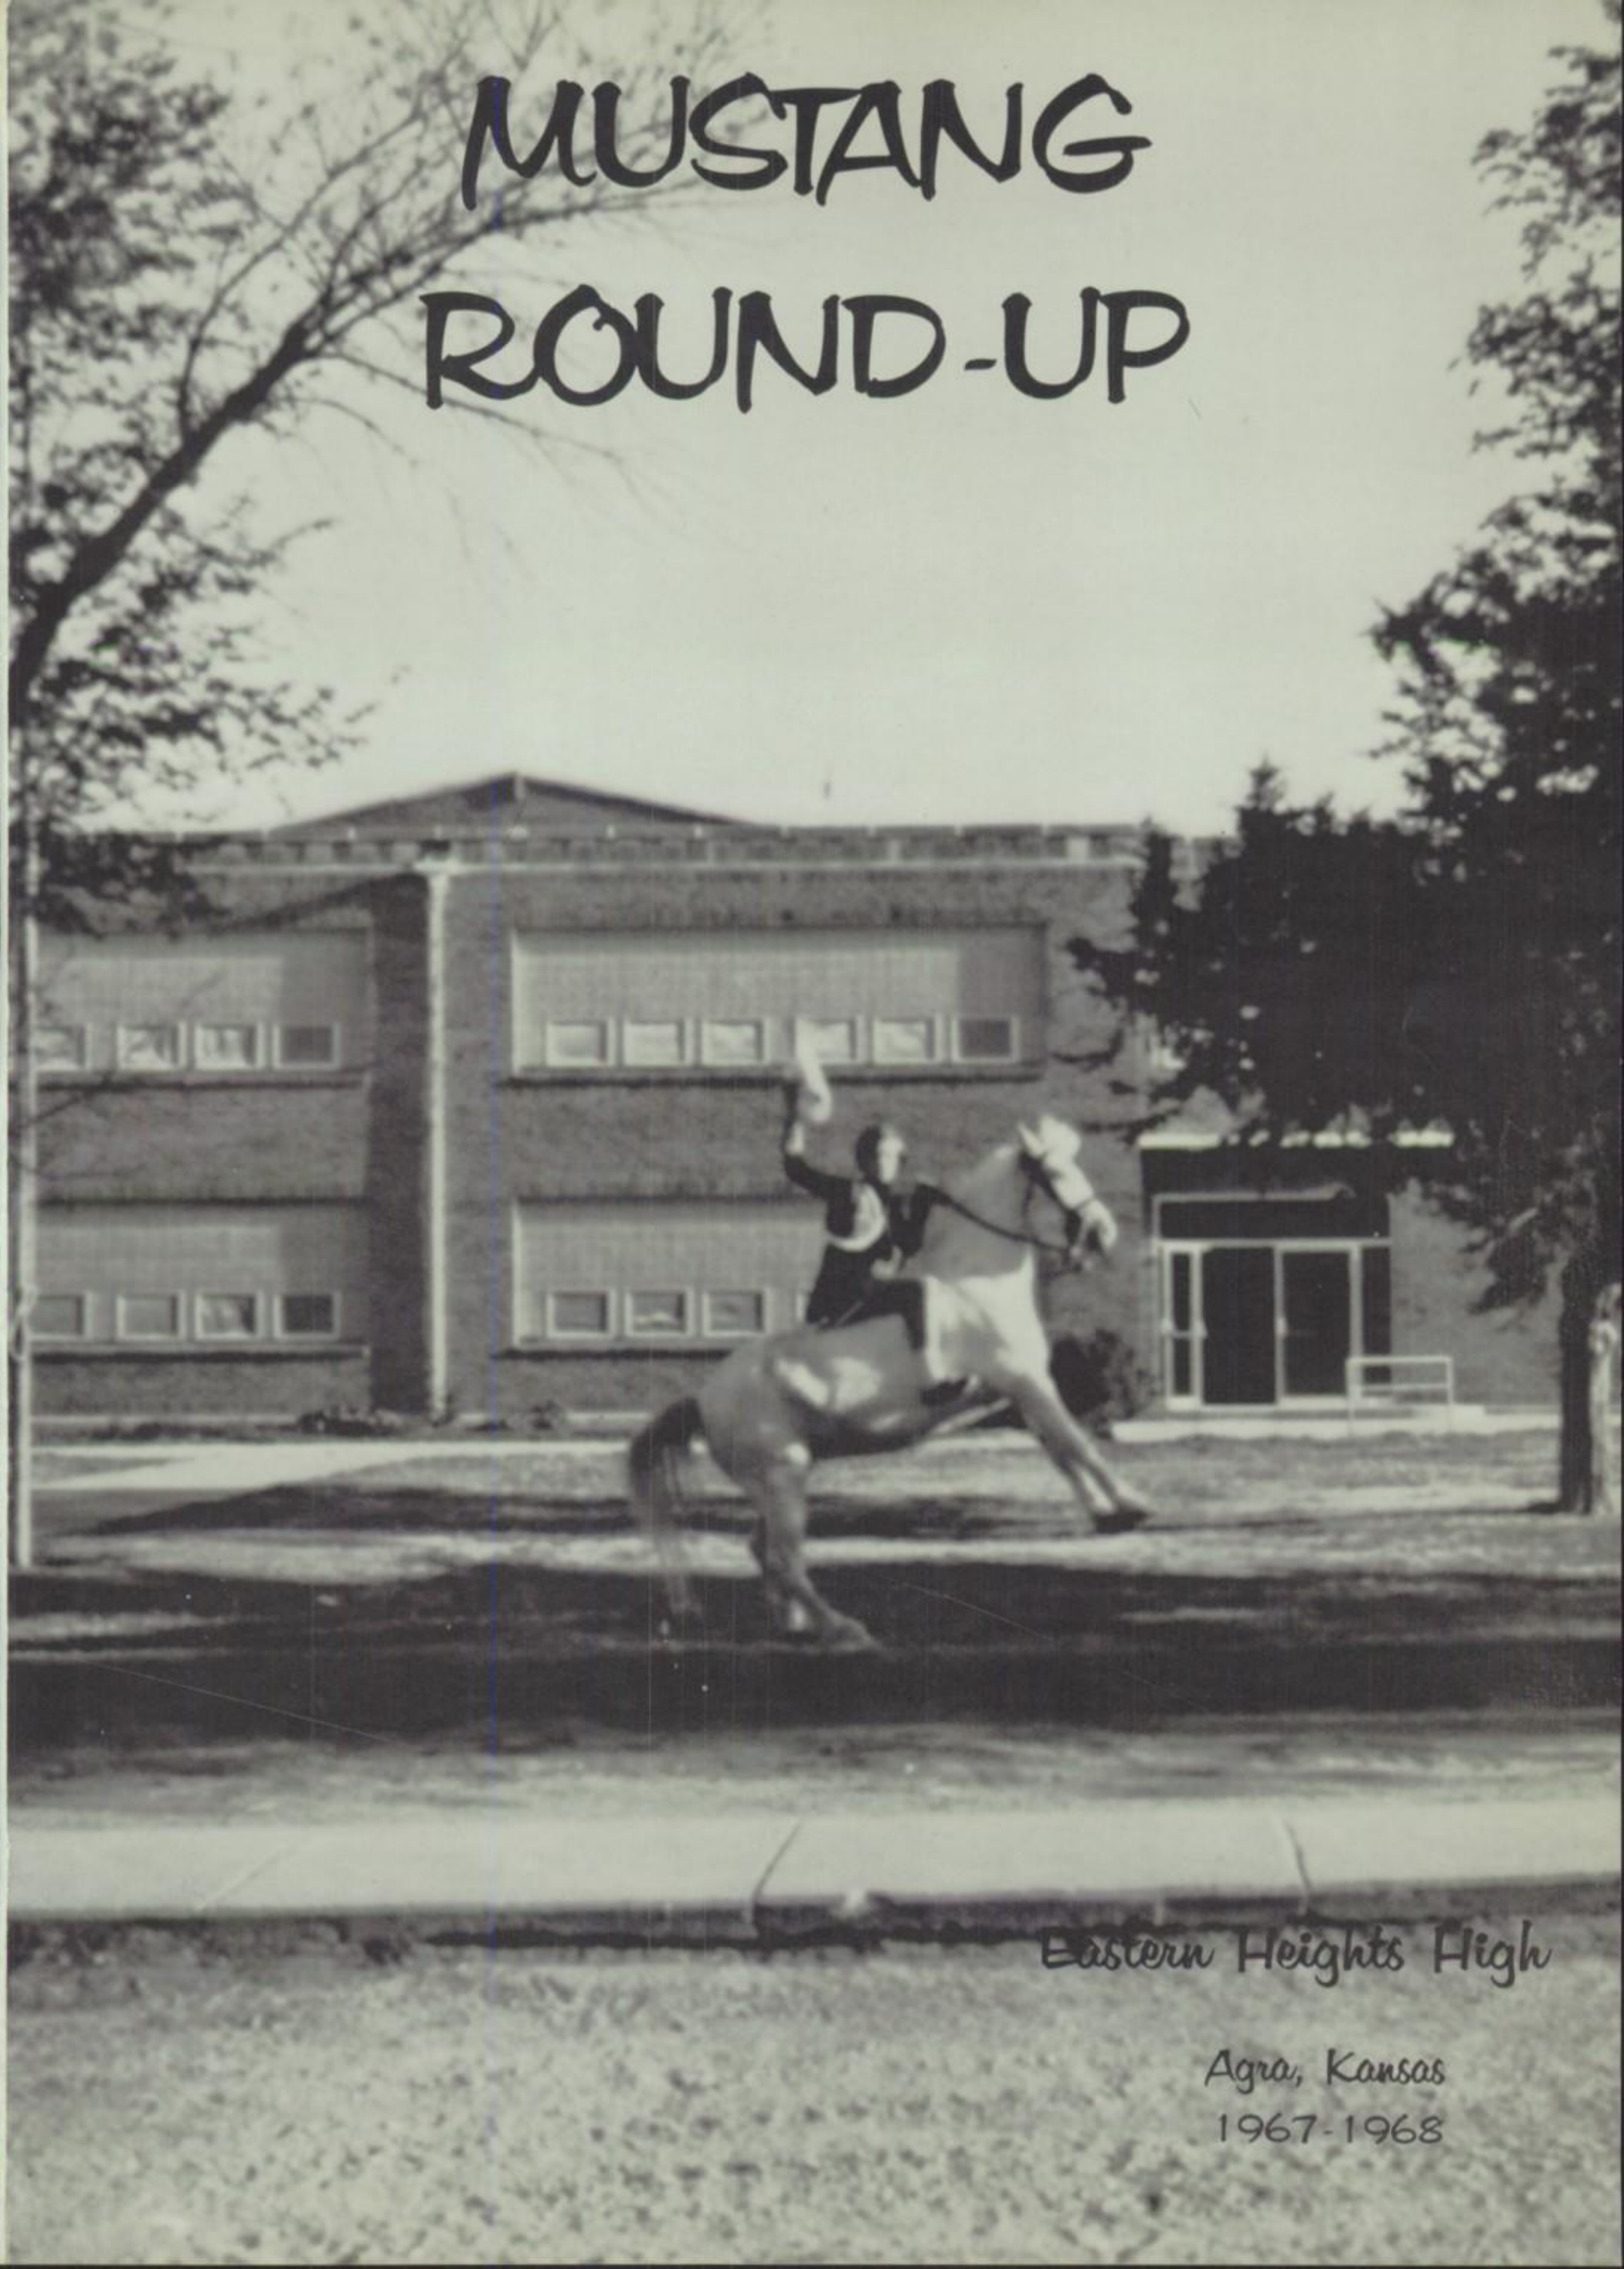
MUSTANG ROUND-UP



Eastern Heights High

Agra, Kansas

1967-1968

ROUND-UP OF . . .

Wild horses are noted for their strength, grace, endurance and, most of all, their wild, free, unconquerable spirit. The students of Eastern Heights High have displayed this same spirit throughout the year. While working, playing, and studying, they have shown much the same energy as their mascot, the Mustang. The classes and tests, parties and committees, plays and concerts, field trips and homework have all been tackled with an enthusiasm that helped bring even the dull days to life.

The events of the year will be remembered as part of the lives of a small community. These students and teachers who laughed and worked and hoped and cried together are all part of one another now. All their lives have overlapped so that each gave a part of himself to form the entire picture of our school.

The MUSTANG staff has tried to round-up the people, events, emotions, and experiences that have formed the school year 1967-1968. This is a history of one year in a school in Agra, Kansas. The main characters are the students and faculty of EHHS, the setting is a small midwestern town, and the motivating force behind it all is the spirit that has been alive since the beginning of the country - the proud, overwhelming spirit of the Mustangs.

. . . EXPERIENCE

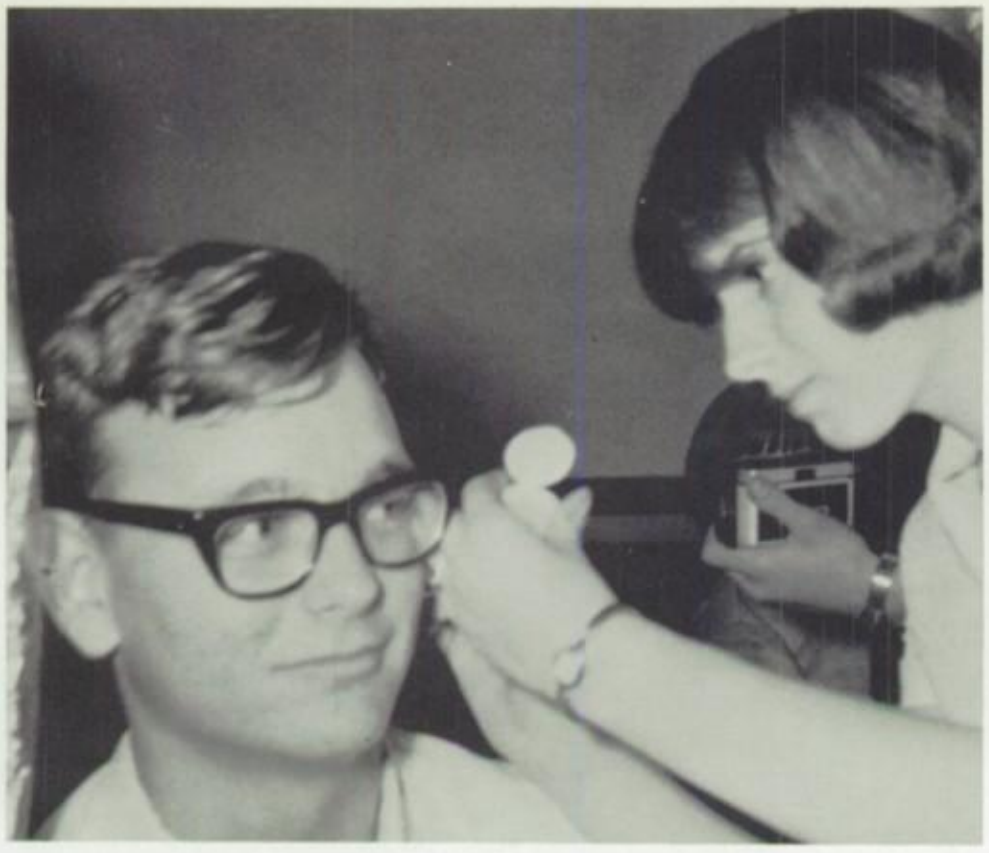
In this world of non-conformists, students are taught not to believe everything they read, because it is usually one author's or one teacher's opinion. Students, therefore are encouraged to check facts for themselves.

This trend to self proof, or reproof as it may be, occasionally leads to mistakes and occasionally to joy. These make up experience.

In the course of a school year, many opportunities arise in which one can gain experience. This is not only true in such fields as sports or scholastics, but also on philosophical or moral issues. Eastern Heights can be proud of its informal atmosphere of learning. The fact that it is possible to freely express oneself or to choose one's own routine contributes to a general feeling of ease.

In such an atmosphere it is possible to gain experience in such things as conversation, social behavior, and private mannerisms. Learning to cook, build, compute, or talk all provide students with the chance to learn and discover. The experience gained and the experiences lived through will always stay with them.

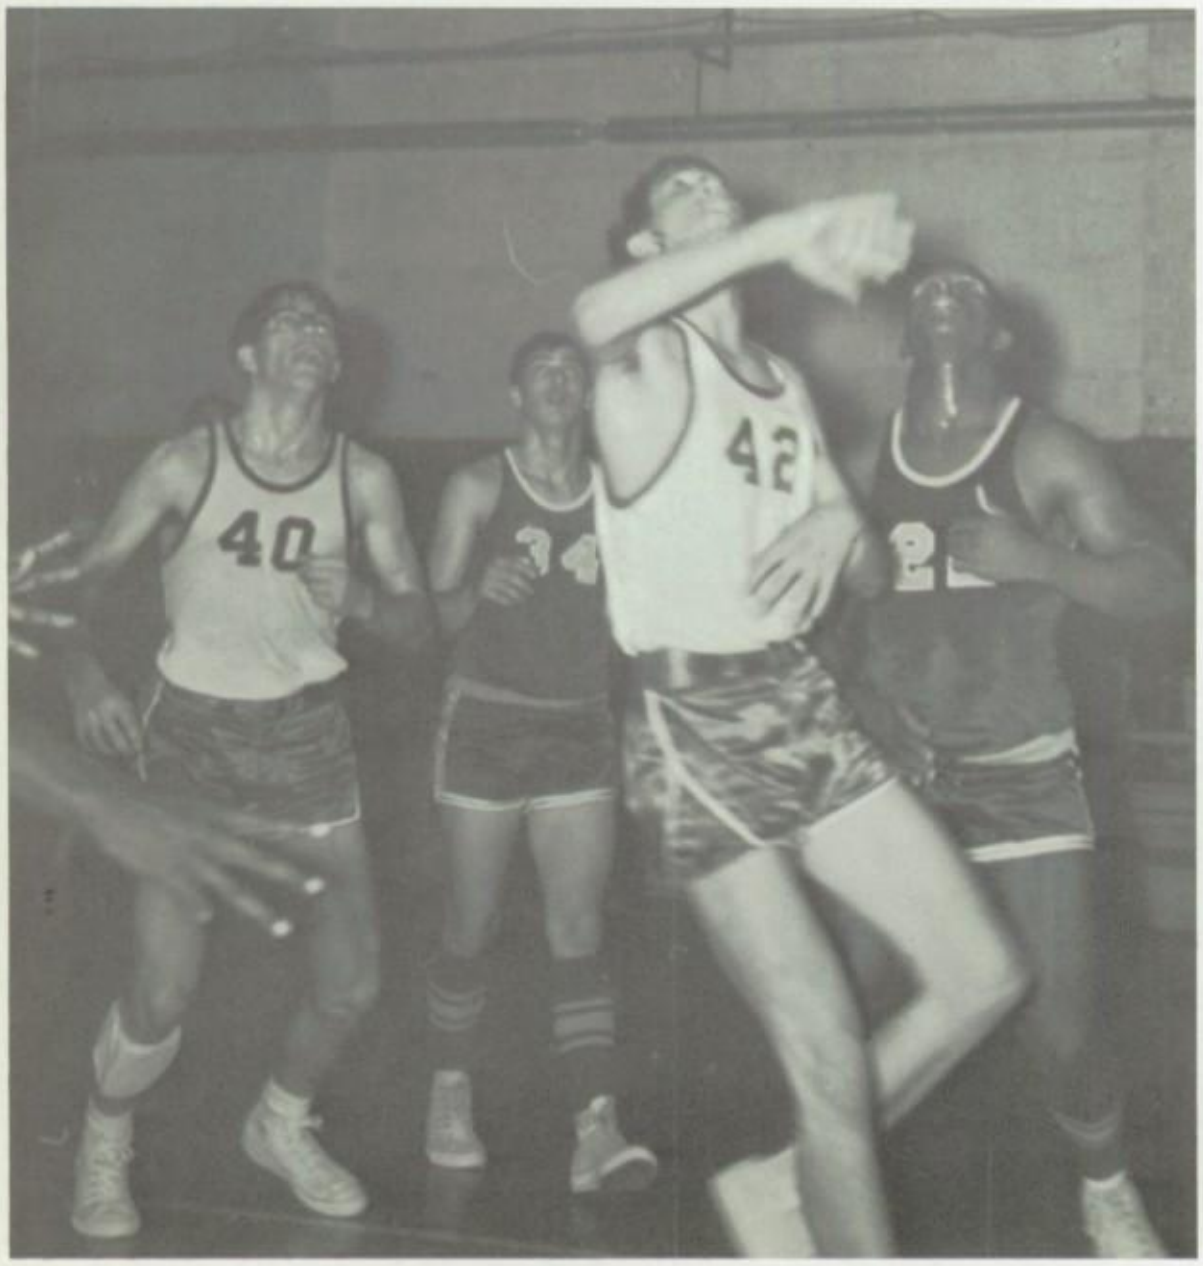
All of these factors, large or small, combine to make high school at Eastern Heights an experience that is in itself worth remembering.

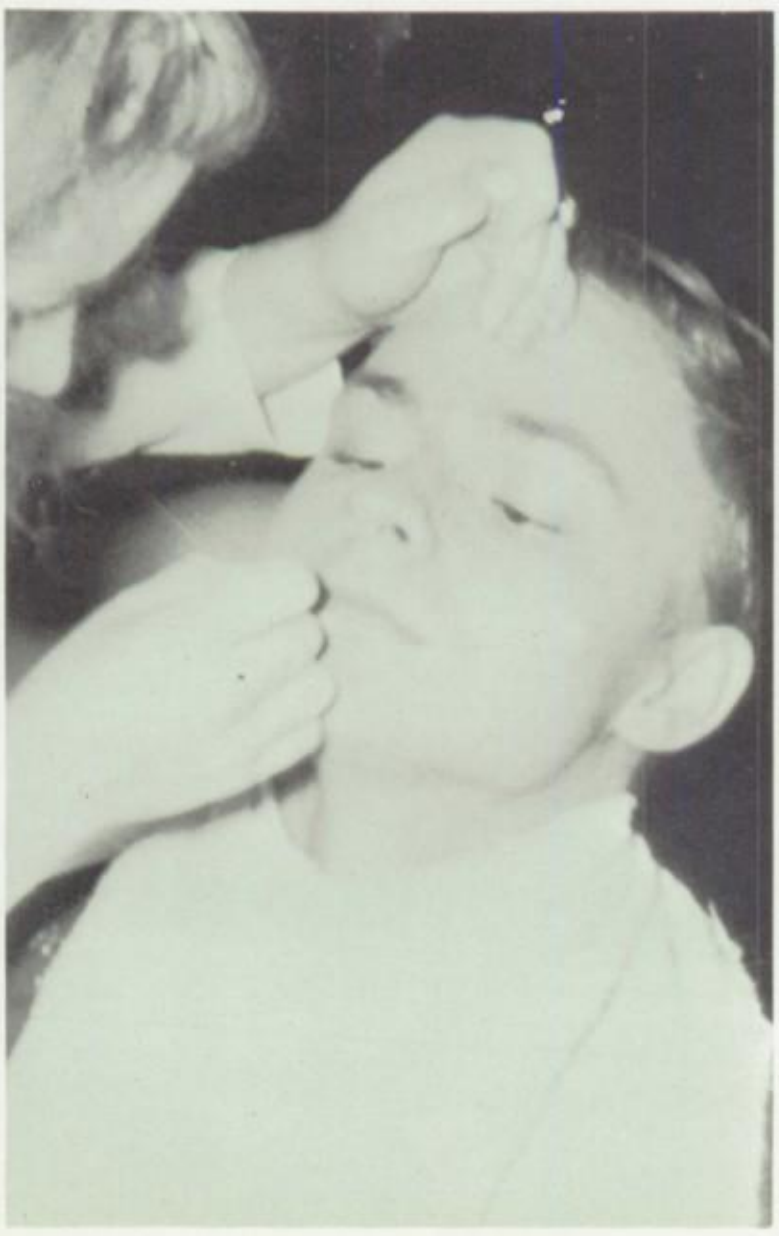


. . . EMOTIONS

The heart of a school and the emotions of school life are the same. The pulsating, changing beats of hope, laughter, tears, love, hate, victory, and defeat are the heartbeats that drive the student body. Without the people and their emotions, the halls become empty and silent.

Most of the emotions are visible in a school year - joy or despair in sports, pride in accomplishment, worry over grades, even happiness or heartbreak in social life. Through all these emotions runs a current of hope, a hope for a better today and tomorrow, hope in remembering the past and preparing for the future.





. . . EVENTS

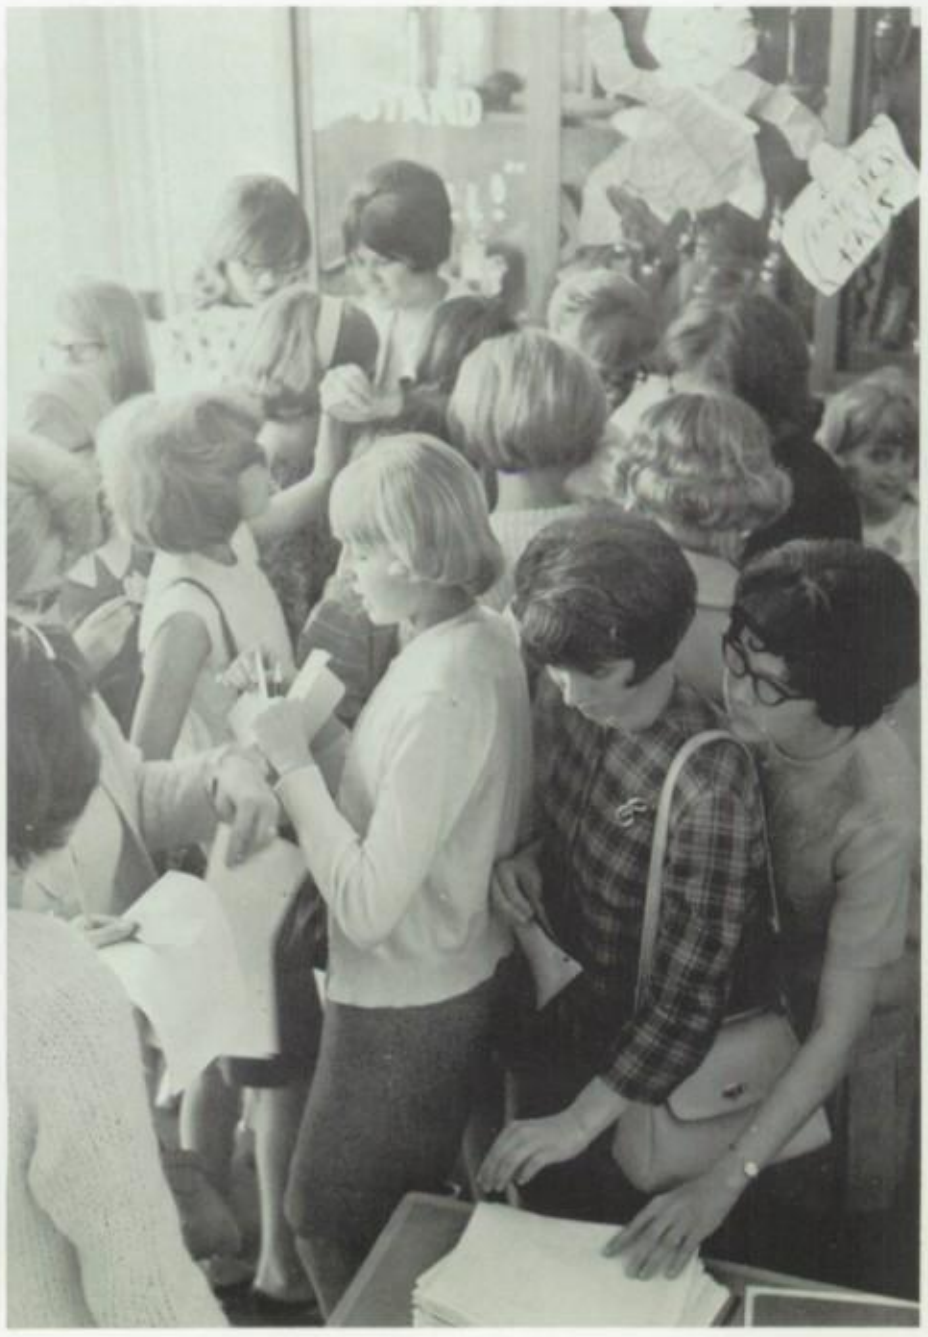
While classes make a school, it is events that make a school live. What would a year be without field trips, awards, banquets, royalty or sports?

The traditions and customs that make up the events are almost as important to extracurricular activities as the activity itself. Therefore, such things as Homecoming and Prom take on more meaning each year to those who participate. Old sports rivalries are re-ignited and old friendships reunited.

Although there were many, many more events in the school year than the ones pictured on these pages, these are a fair representation of them. Several awards were made to students in numerous fields, including scholastic, athletic and extracurricular.

Eastern Heights was lucky to be chosen as host to the Kayette conference and other league and area events. Homecoming and prom, the highlights of the school social year, were but two of the many dances and parties of the year.

These two pages and the ones following are random examples of the events that kept spirit alive at EHHS.



... ADMINISTRATION

Administration Provides Guiding Hand

Running a school efficiently is a big job, but one which was well taken care of by the school board. Among the major decisions that had to be made; finances were taken care of, activities were supervised, teachers were hired and countless other things needed to be done. Through all of this the administration kept a watchful eye to see the school machinery was running smoothly.

More in direct contact with the students than the school board, Mr. Moiser and Mr. Schamber were very much in the thoughts and hearts of Eastern Heights students. Every day they gave new inspiration by a witty comment or display of concern. Upon an occasion they were ready to strengthen the fortitude of the school.

Making the task easier for the superintendent and principal, Mrs. Moiser and Mrs. VanEaton took care of book work, ran errands and gave advice to many of the students.

MAKING A NOTE to remind him of his next appointment, Mr. C. A. Schamber usually had someone needing to confer with him in his office.

MEETING ONCE A MONTH, the school board decided the major issues of the school. Pictured below are John B. Wyrill, Jr., Charles McDowell, Lyle Ross, and Robert Mosier.

FILING IMPORTANT PAPERS was only one of Donna VanEaton's duties as secretary to Mr. C. A. Schamber.

CHECKING THROUGH SOME of the papers that must be taken care of to keep the school running, Robert Moiser finishes his day's work as superintendent.

ANSWERING THE PHONE and keeping track of appointments are two of Donna Moiser's tasks as secretary for the superintendent.

TAKING TIME FROM a board meeting to have their picture taken are Mr. Irwin Dettmer, Mr. Leslie Abbott and Mr. Carl Rogers, president.

. . . FACULTY

Teachers Become Personalities

Mr. Kenneth Jones taught American history, American government, eighth grade shop, and one semester each of psychology and sociology. His quick wit and good humor helped make his classes enjoyable to all.

In physics, chemistry, general science, biology, and Senior algebra, Mr. Richard Moore's interested nature made him well known.

Mr. Edward Lawrence, shop instructor, taught classes in drafting, woodworking, and a semester each of electronics and welding. He also joined in a team-teaching course of general science with Mr. Moore.

Our band instructor, Mr. George Belden, also conducted the boys' chorus and helped produce the musical "Get Up And Go." He also conducted the grade school band.

Mrs. George Belden was the girls' chorus instructor and cooperated with Mr. Belden in the production of the musical. In addition, she was in charge of the grade school vocal music.

Mr. Dennis Erkenbrack, our basketball, track, and assistant football coach, also taught health and drivers' education. His friendly nature made him well liked by both his team and students.

Mr. Robert Yockel taught mathematics in EHHS and led the football team through fierce competition as well. His classes included algebra I, geometry, and algebra II. He also coached the basketball "C" team.

Mrs. Carolyn Redinger had the dual responsibility of running the libraries at both Kirwin and Agra, and teaching a world history class. She also sponsored Kayettes.

Although Mrs. Anna May Fischli only taught the second semester of home economics, she quickly gained friends by her pleasant disposition. She also taught grade home economics and helped sponsor the yearbook and Pep Club.

Mrs. Melba Hagman taught homemaking first semester at Kirwin and Agra, and helped the Pep Club to become organized.

Our Spanish instructor was Mr. Dan Franco who also devoted his time to being sponsor of the Spanish Club.

Mr. Gordon King was in charge of the typing, shorthand, economics, and office practice. His ready humor and easy disposition gained respect from all.

Our English teacher, Mrs. Hildreth, also sponsored the school paper and gave valuable class time each week for the annual staff.

SWEEPING THE school after everyone had left was one of the jobs Ed Mueller performed daily.

BESIDES DRIVING A BUS ROUTE, Ted Redinger also kept the buses and driver education car in repair.

WATCHING UNTIL the students have safely boarded the bus is Ora Elliott.

Behind the Scenes

The cooks, custodians and bus drivers are very important to the existence of the school. These dedicated people came to school at seven o'clock each morning and worked until long after everyone else had gone home, or left home before daylight to take the students to school. On some days they were at work before sunrise and didn't return home until dusk.

Two of the bus drivers not pictured were Lloyd Wilford and Wayne Baker who drove the feeder buses.

AS EACH student boarded the bus, Harold Ellis greeted him with a smile.

. . . CURRICULUM

Excellent Courses Offered

The backbone of any educational system is the courses it offers. Although all the "extras" make a school more enjoyable, without a varied program of necessary topics a school would be no more than a playground.

Eastern Heights can rightfully take pride in the many classes and fields of study offered. In each of the twelve areas of study qualified teachers strive to help each individual master the course.

These twelve, mathematics, science, English, industrial arts, music, commerce, health, languages, drivers education, physical education and home economics, are subdivided into a number of more technical courses.

In all thirty-eight separate courses are offered at Eastern Heights, of which thirty-five are offered daily while the remainder are offered two to three hours per week.

STUDY HALL provided a chance to study or visit with friends.

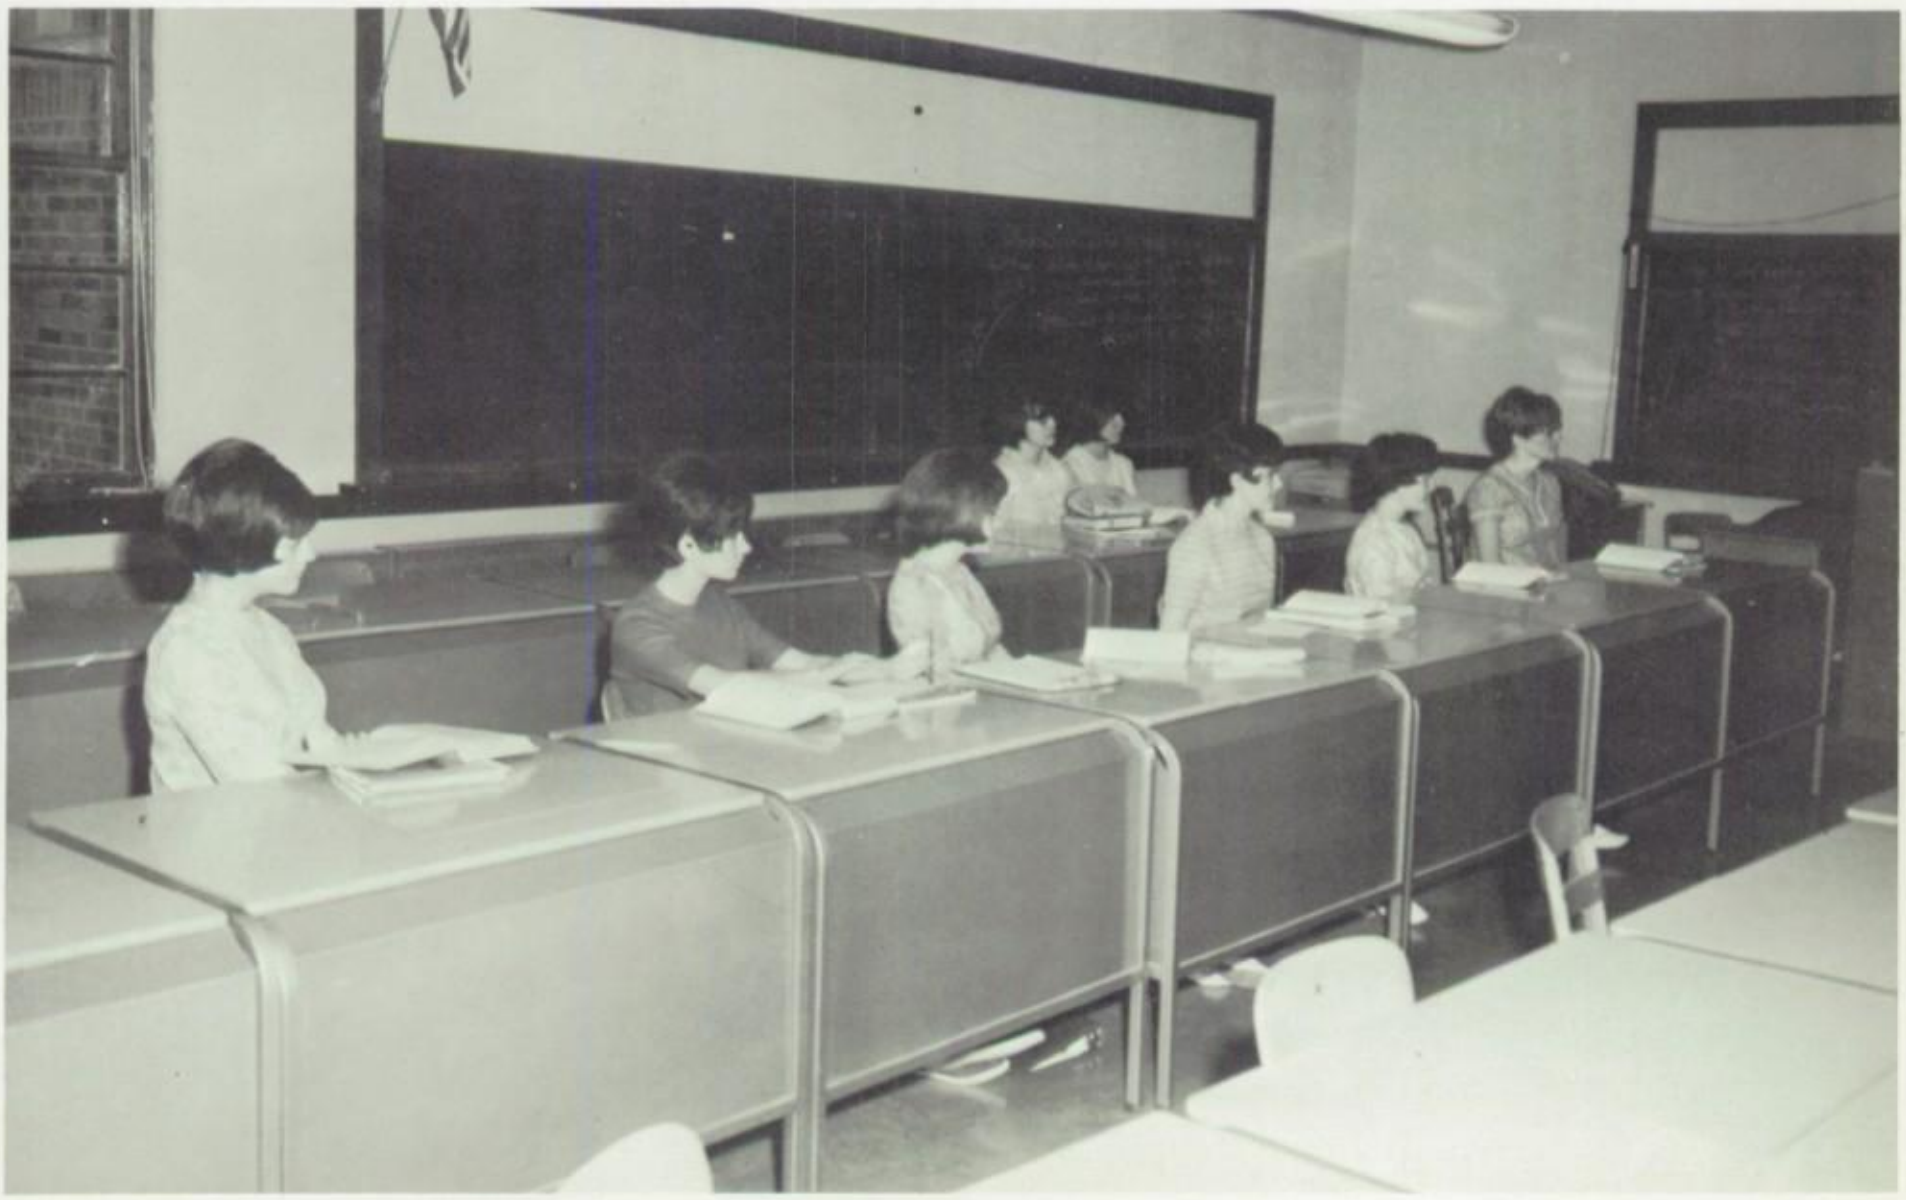
SENIOR homemaking was one of the many Home Economics courses offered.

A CHANCE to gain skill as well as have fun was offered by the physical education class.

THE MUSTANG band performed at the Christmas program and other school functions.

MANY STUDENTS were surprised to learn that chemistry can be very exciting. Mr. Moore and Tom DeBey duck the flames and sparks as a thermite reaction ignites.

ONE OF THE more sedate classes was office practice. The girls learned the basic procedures in an office and the duties of secretaries.



Classes Take Trips

Almost every student at Eastern Heights participated in at least one field trip of some kind. The science classes took their leave to visit the refinery in Phillipsburg and several other smaller scale trips.

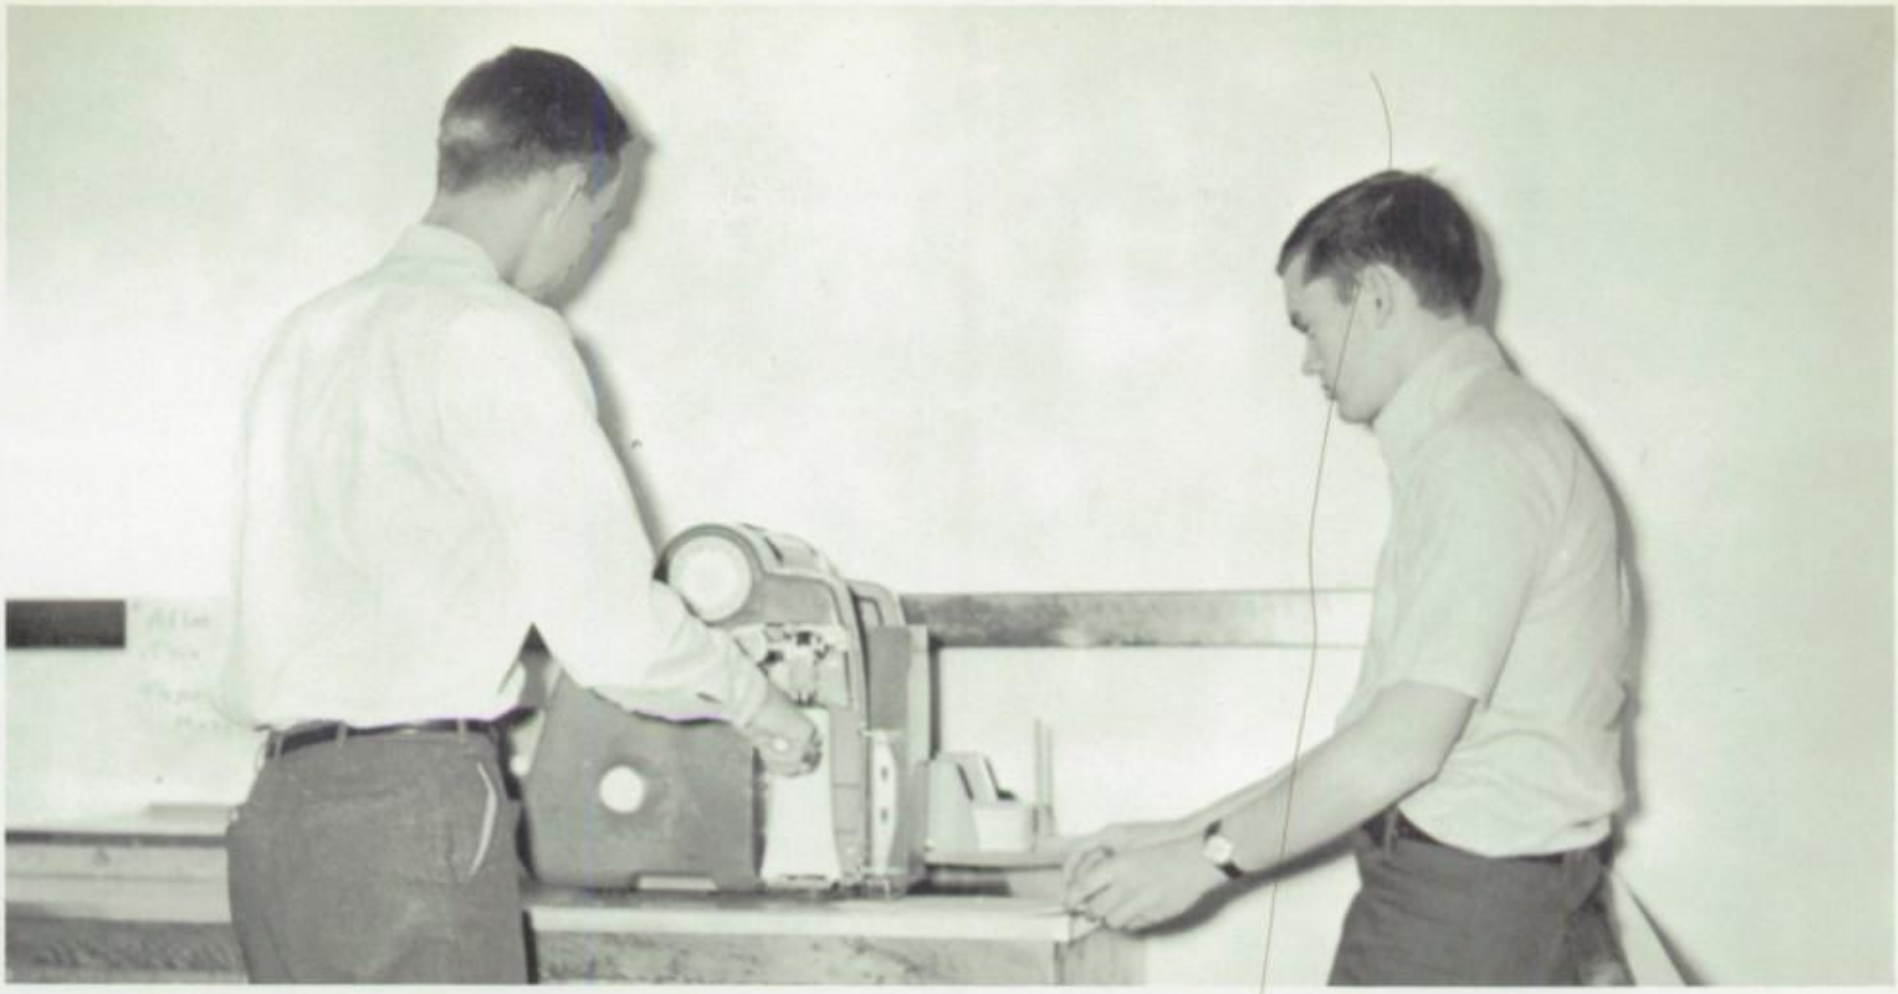
The longest trip was taken by the Psychology-Sociology class, which went to the state hospital at Larned for a day.

Even though they didn't take long trips, many students enjoyed the smaller trips which were made. The home economics classes participated in several visits to places in the area, and the business and commerce classes toured the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Company and the First National Bank in Phillipsburg.

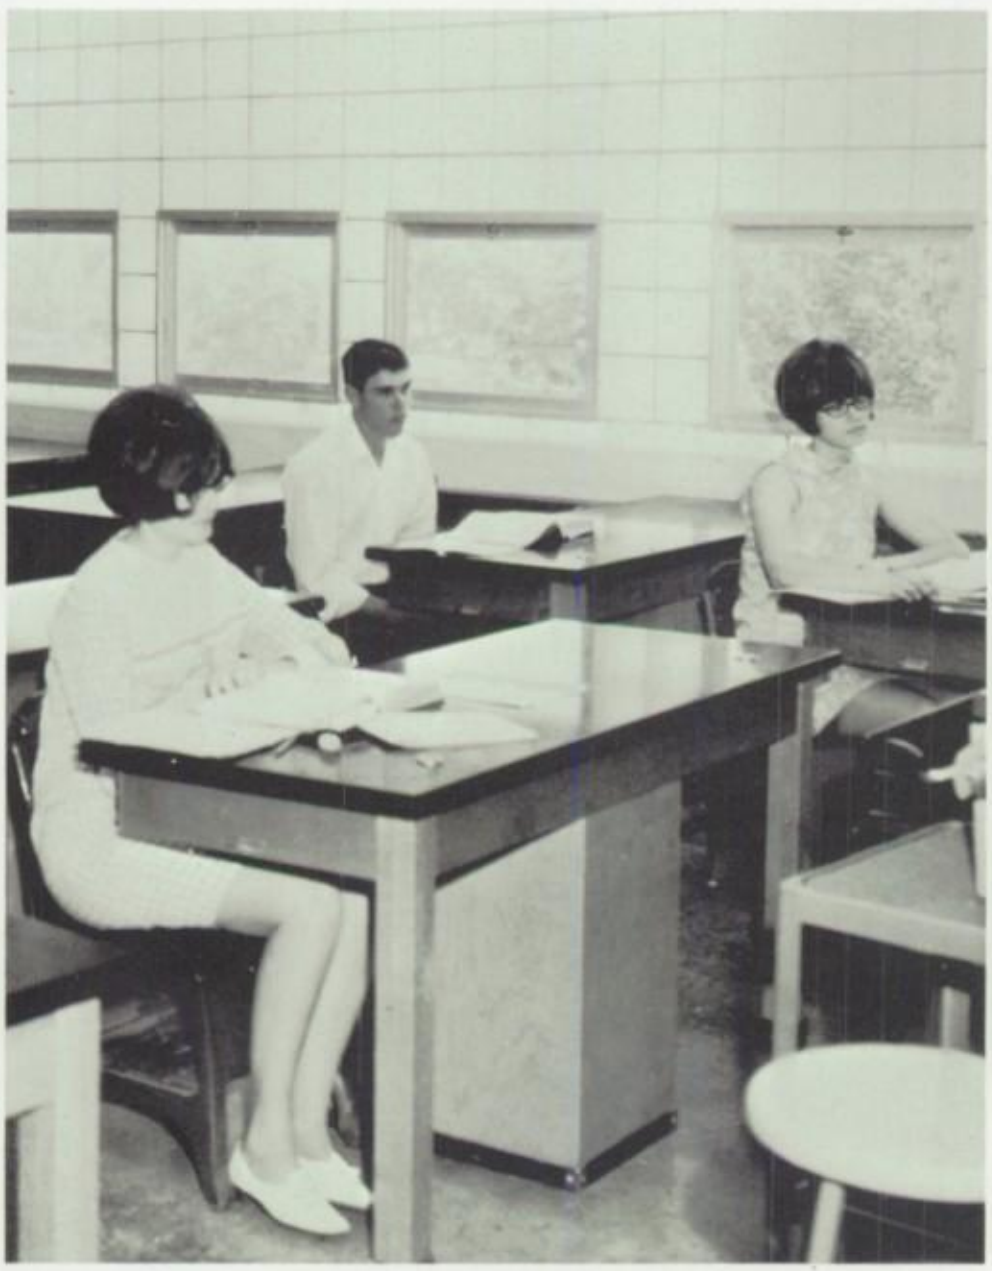
DEMONSTRATING ELECTRIC appliances to the home economics classes, Mrs. Hesser came from the Western Power and Lines Company in Concordia.

A TRIP to Lowell Keese's real estate office provided the senior homemaking class with information on homes and the ways of buying them.

THE BUSINESS classes enjoyed a trip to the gas company. Mr. Littlejohn led the tour and answered all questions.



EVERY THREE weeks the English IV class published the school newspaper. Here Howard Robinson and Vernon Bailey are running off a page for one of these papers.



LEARNING HOW the actions of nations affect others was one of the main points in World History.

HEALTH CLASS, one of the required subjects was participated in by students of all four classes.

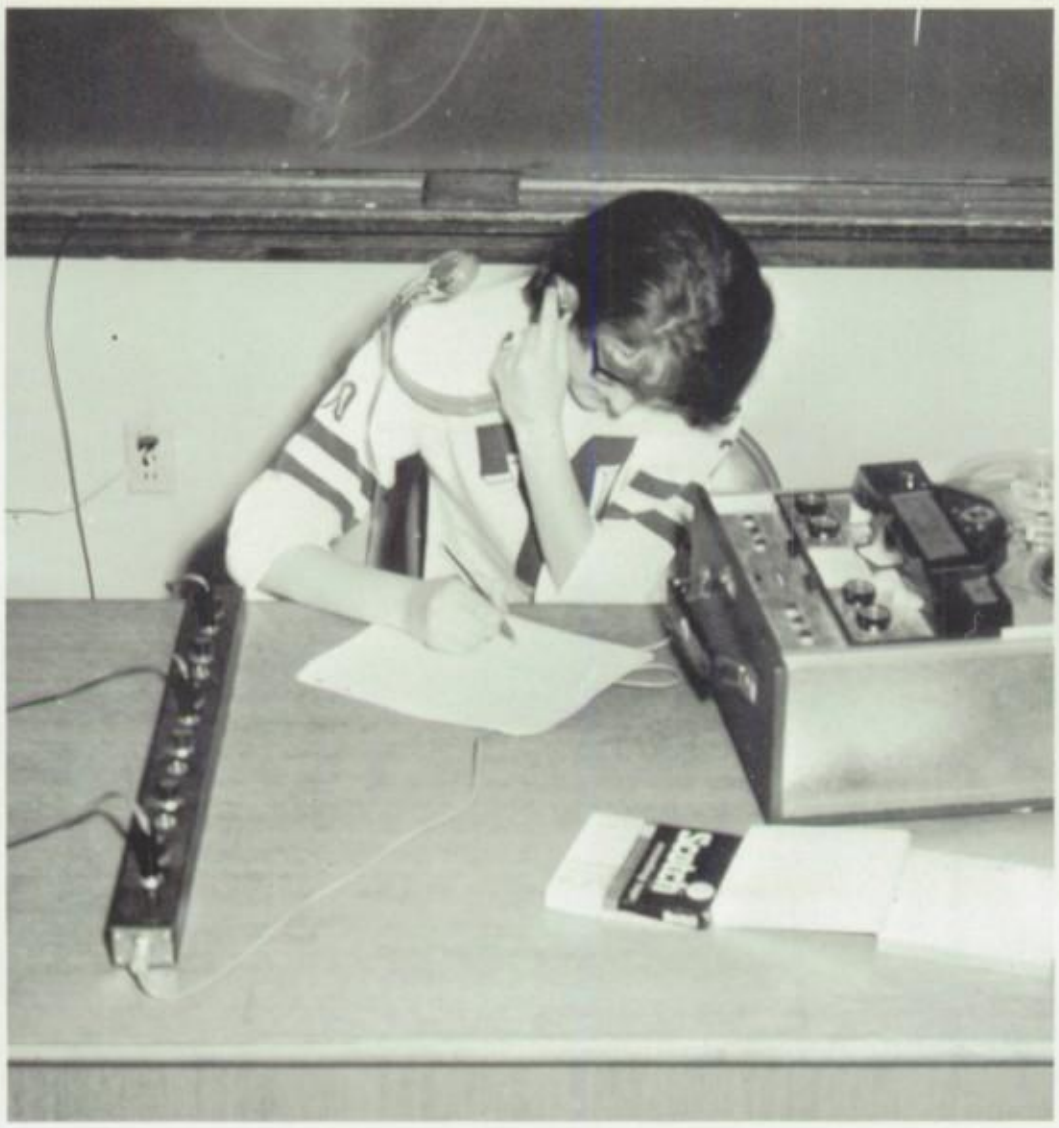
LIGHT BENDS in different directions depending upon the prism used. The physics class conducted several experiments and learned the physical properties of light as well as motion and electricity.

Science and Math Basics Are Learned

Science and mathematics are grouped together. They are closely connected because a basic understanding of math is required for almost all science courses. This was as true at Eastern Heights as anywhere else. Science courses were taught by Mr. Richard Moore, who was aided by Mr. Edward Lawrence in one class. Mathematics was taught by Mr. Robert Yockel, who was helped by Mr. Moore, the Senior Algebra teacher.

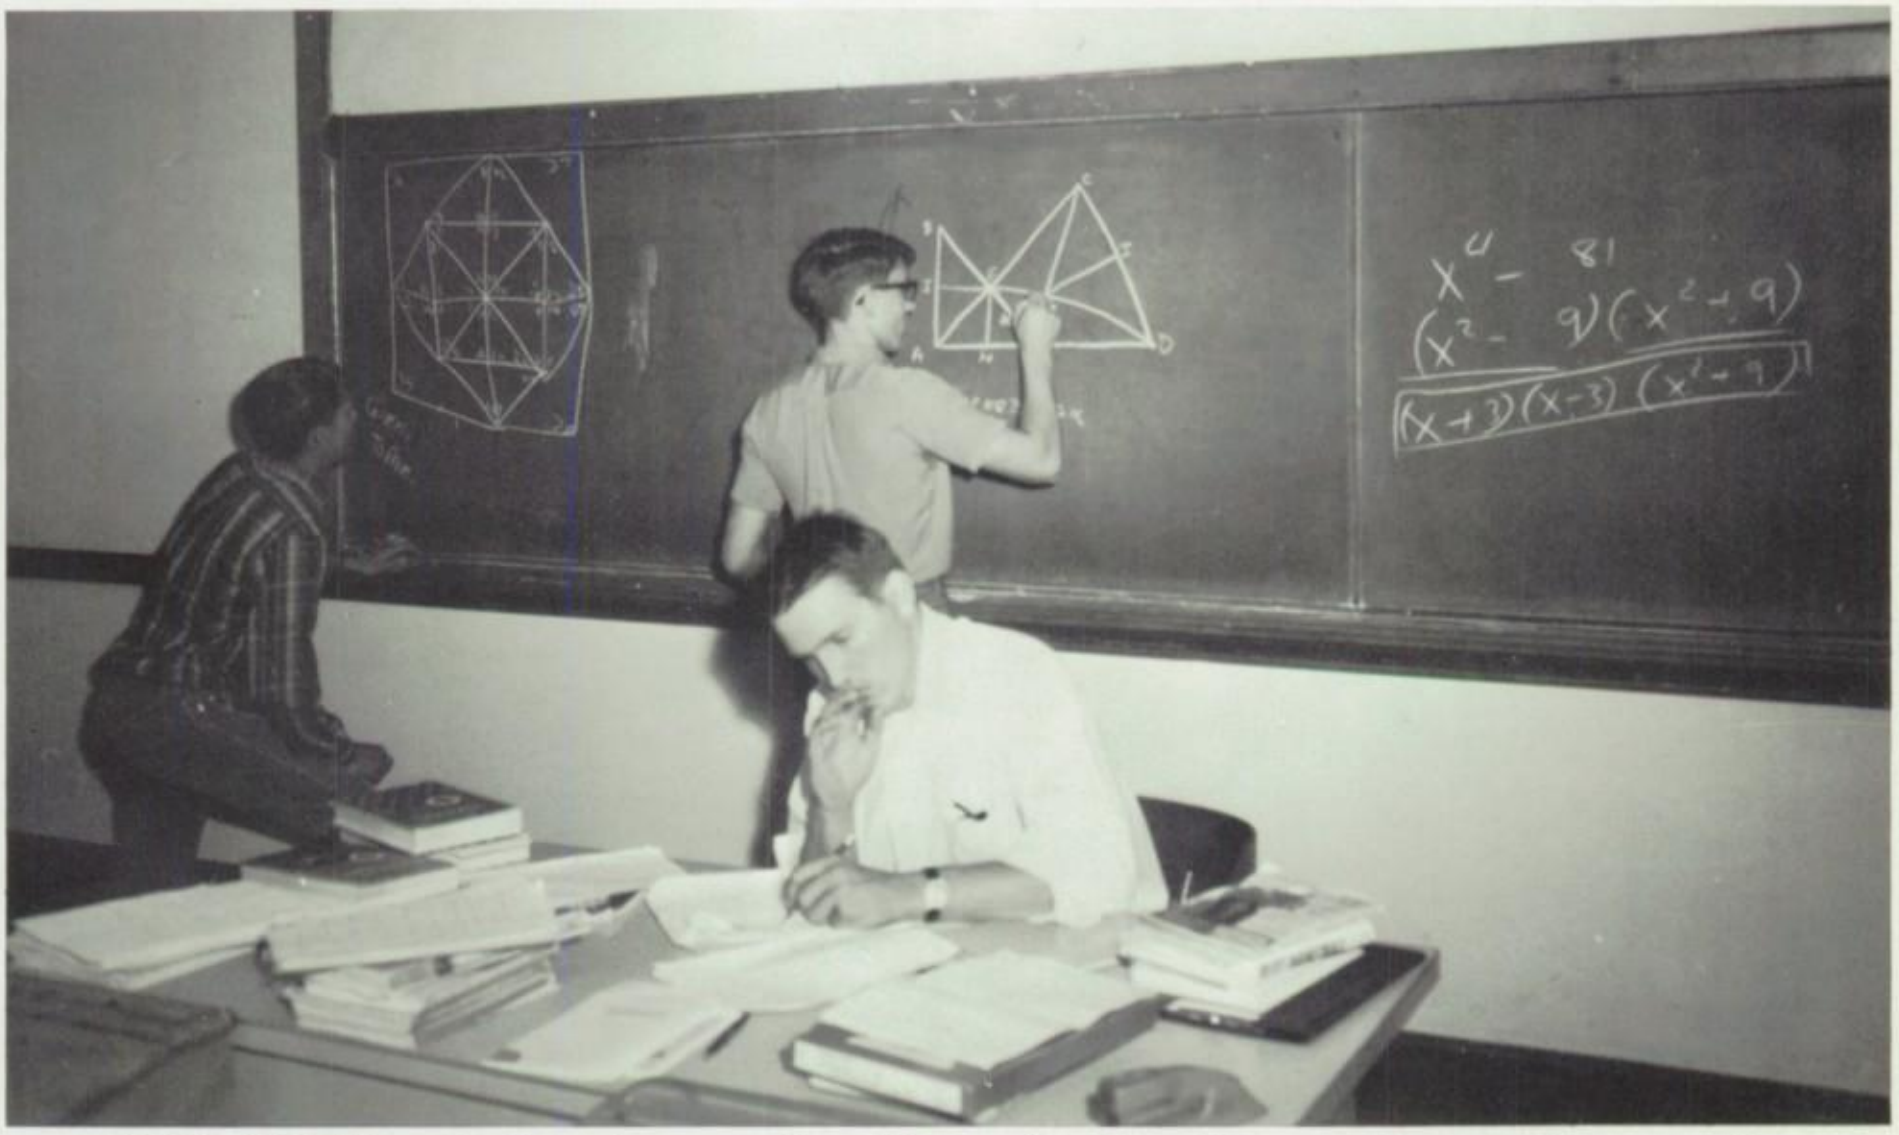
Several courses were offered in these fields, including Chemistry, Physics, Biology, Advanced Algebra and Trigonometry. Mr. Moore and Mr. Lawrence participated in a team-teacher class for Biology. This is the first year this has been tried at Eastern Heights, and it worked well.

ONE OF THE most practical courses offered was bookkeeping. The students learned how to keep records and file income tax statements. Mr. Schamber was the instructor.



USING RECORDED tapes of the Spanish language, Sheila Losey hopes to improve her pronunciation and accent when she uses it in class.

THE LAST MINUTE rush of putting the school newspaper out is shown as the English IV class staples the paper together.



AS MR. YOCKEL grades the assignment, Greg Abbott and Joe Goracke try to solve two of the more advanced theorems in their book. In geometry most of the class time was spent in the practice of the mathematical theory.

USING OUR ENGLISH language correctly is one of the most vital things we can learn. As Freshmen this class began diagramming verbs, adjectives and other basics of sentence structure.

INFORMALITY IS the key to an interesting government class. The Juniors enjoyed a campaign to elect several from their class to hold office on County Government Day.

KEEPING PHYSICALLY fit is important to most girls and a physical education class provides a pleasant way of accomplishing it.

LEARNING TO COOK is preparing for your own home to the Freshman home economics class. As Dara Otis stirs the cake, Georgia Perkins tastes Debbie Christy's frosting and Carol Dennis gets the lemon flavoring.

Students Learn Practical Skills

Experience, fitness and information all were included in the classes offered at EHHS this year. In home economics, woodworking and welding the emphasis was placed on things which will be used in practical application.

Classes such as English, American history, world history and government gave basic knowledge which is applied to social and business situations.

With the need to keep the American people in good physical condition EHHS requires at least one course in physical education and health. This provides an opportunity for students to gain skill and fitness while enjoying such things as tumbling.

AS MR. ERKENBRACK demonstrates the method of checking the oil level, Rhonda Smith, Mike Losey and Steve Nelson watch.

TESTS ARE taken in wood-working class as well as in any other classes.

PRODUCING A good shop project requires a certain amount of skill and a great deal of knowledge of tools. Joe Goracke, Tim Ellenberger and Nick Campbell start one of their projects.

. . . CLASSES

Graduating Class Faces Future

The last year of high school brought many new challenges to the Senior class. Among these were the ACT tests, scholarships and the last year of sports.

Many who planned to go on to college found themselves swamped with representatives from various schools and professions.

Other class members were faced with similar decisions regarding future plans.

But regardless of the future and all of the planning, when the big night came, many graduated with tears in their eyes.

WINNING FIRST place at the Old Settler's Day parade was the Senior float declaring youth the "Light of the Future."

DECORATING FOR baccalaureate was a large job which Sherri Baker tackled willingly.

DURING FRESHMAN initiation, the heartless Seniors enjoyed tormenting the freshmen.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS for 1968 were Kevin Abbott, vice-president, Robert Rahjes, secretary, Richard Childers, treasurer, and Peggy Johnson, president.

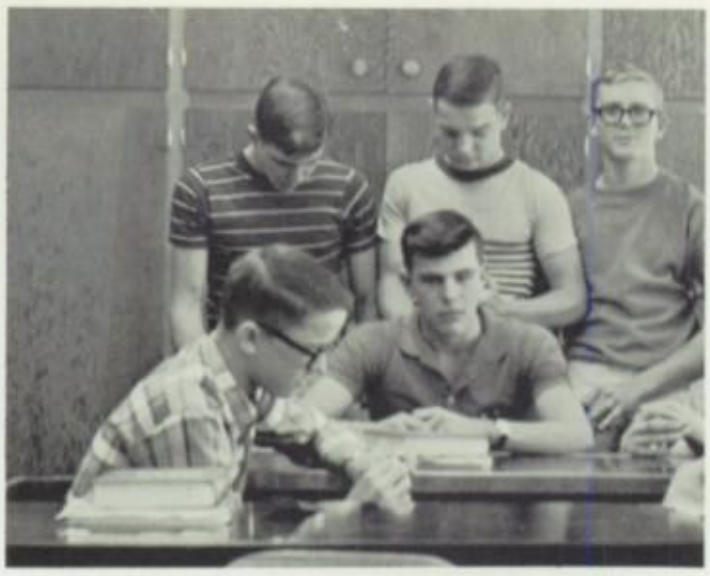
Juniors Complete Busy Year



RECEIVING CLASS rings was one of the highlights of the juniors' school year.

The 1968 Junior Class proved themselves a very important asset to E.H.H.S. They worked hard to earn money for their prom, In The Misty Moonlight, on May 4. They sold class pins, toothbrushes, and sponsored many football and basketball concessions.

"Let Freedom Ring," their Old Settler's Day float, won second prize in the annual parade. They also sponsored the concession in the Kirwin City Park during the day.

The play, "Aunt Samantha Rules the Roost," not only added a considerable sum to their treasury, but provided many hours of enjoyment as well.

Starting with their entry in the Old Settlers' Day parade, the sophomores continued the year keeping themselves busy with their projects. Their float in the parade consisted of a grandfather clock and had the theme, "As Time Passes On." They received fourth place.

Ten members of the class were chosen by the juniors to be servers at the Junior-Senior Banquet. Besides serving the food and drinks, they also provided much of the entertainment after the meal.

CLEANING UP after the Awards-Athletic banquet was a big task, but the Freshmen tackled it willingly and soon had it done. Volunteering for clean-up was only one of the ways that they proved themselves useful to the school.

Freshmen Prove Themselves

The students of Eastern Heights were proud to welcome this fine class into their ranks.

The freshmen proved themselves very good sports, early in September when they were officially initiated and welcomed by the unmerciful seniors.

All class members enjoyed the fun during class parties that their advisor, Mr. Richard Moore, sponsored.

Among the many projects the freshmen undertook were cleaning up after the Athletic Banquet, making a float for Old Settler's Day and sponsoring concessions at both football and basketball games. In addition to class activities, many individuals successfully participated in school activities.

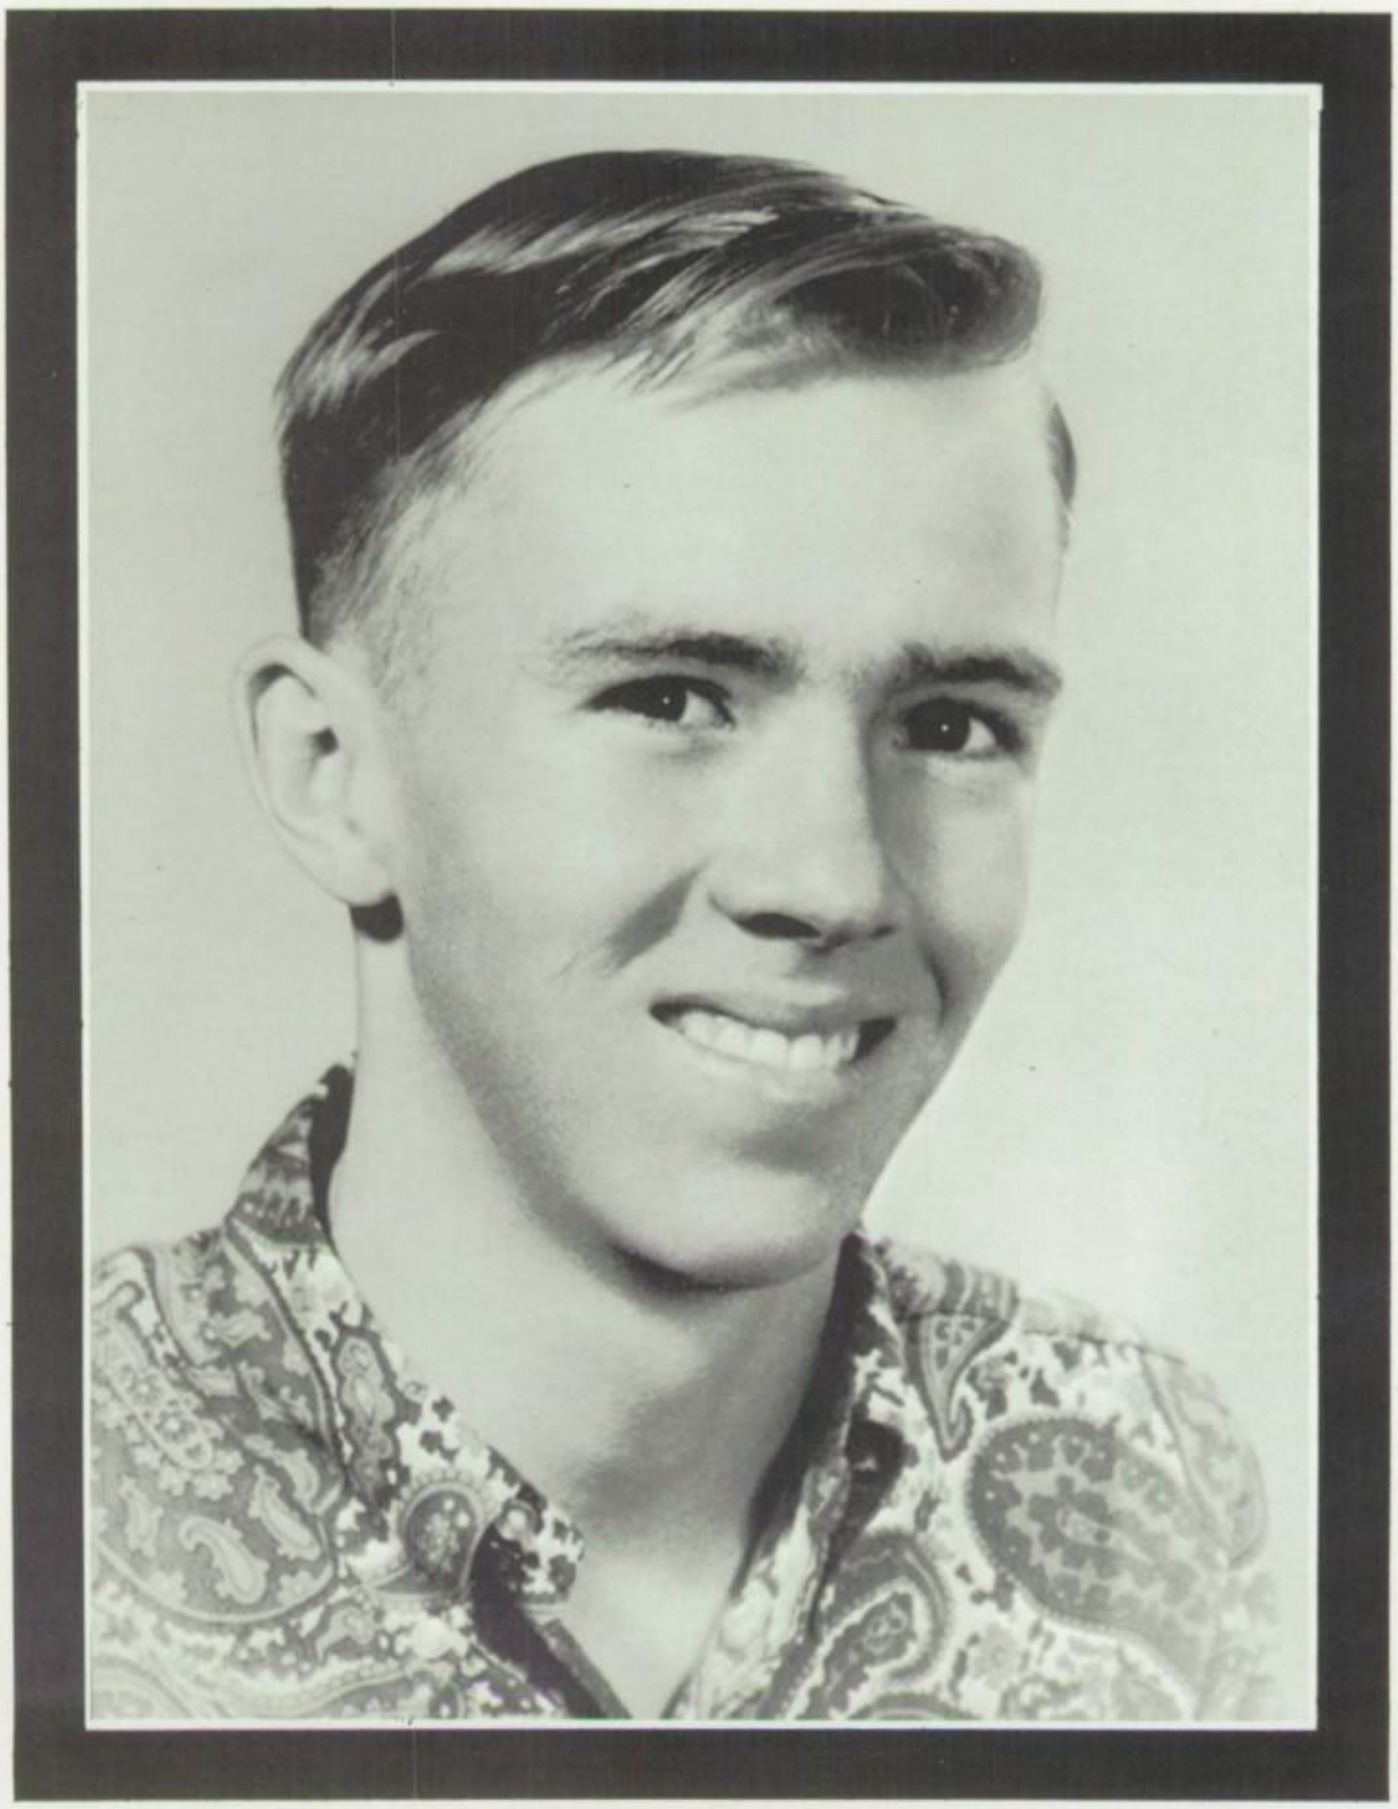
In Memory of



Daniel Lee Daily

One of the saddest parts of life is losing a friend, but it becomes even sadder when the friend is only a sophomore in high school. The students and faculty felt deeply the loss of Dan, who died in an automobile accident. Always cheerful and ready to help, Dan had just finished working at the League Drama Festival before his death on March 12, 1968.

Dan was active in band and other school activities this year. He was a transfer student from Phillipsburg High School where he had attended his freshman year.

. . . ACTIVITIES

Students Win Second in Scholarships

18 Eastern Heights students attended the North-South Solomon League Scholarship meet which was held at Alton, Kansas, on March 20, 1968. Testing was held in three 50 minute sessions in the morning, and the Eastern Heights group were back at school for lunch.

The tests were graded and the scores recorded at Bogue on May 2. Results from Eastern Heights were as follows:

1st place - Robert Kaiser - - - - - - - - - - Biology
Denis Miller - - - - - - - - - Chemistry
2nd place - Georgia Perkins - - - - - - - - English I
- - - - - - - Algebra I
Greg Abbott - - - - - - - - - - Spelling
Darlene Elliott - - - - - - - - - Health
Denis Miller - - - - - - - Bookkeeping
- - - - - - - - - Algebra II
Sherri Baker - - - - - - - - Psychology
3rd place - Dede Bogart - - - - - - - - - - Spelling
Robert Kaiser - - - - - Plane Geometry
Kay Wyley - - - - - - - - Bookkeeping
Richard Childers - - - American History
4th place - Sherri Baker - - - - - - - - - English IV
Georgia Perkins - - - - - - - - - Health
Janice Schmid - - - - - - - - Clothing
Kay Wyley - - - American Government
Lynn Otis - - - - - - - - - - English III

Marching Band Sports New Uniforms

The Eastern Heights Mustang Band, under the direction of George Belden, participated in many musical events this year.

Starting the year in new uniforms, which they helped purchase by holding money-making projects, the band marched and played at football games. The Homecoming royalty were escorted in by the band and serenaded after the crowning.

The annual Old Settler's Day parade provided another chance to display their marching ability.

A trip to the Kansas State Fair provided a pleasant experience for all of the band members. After marching in the downtown parade, the members enjoyed the excitement of the fair.

GEORGE Belden, band director, played at pep rallies and games.

Band and Ensembles Go to State Festival

Spring activities for the band included the League Band Clinic at Bogue and the State Music Festival at Concordia.

Ratings for the bands' playing and sight reading were both III's.

Many hours of practice were put in by the ensembles. The brass quartet, percussion quintet and saxophone quintet all received II ratings.

Another busy part of the spring was spent practicing for the musical. The stage band played the background and accompaniment to "Get Up and Go".

PRACTICING THEIR NUMBER are the percussion quintet, Cliff Kendall, Leslie Smith, Rhonda Smith, Mike Losey, and Darlene Elliott.

SMILING PROUDLY ABOUT THEIR rating are the sax quintet, Janet Munyon, Georgia Perkins, Robert Kaiser, Debbie Christy and Sue Dix.

Girls' Succeed in Music Festival

The glee club girls sang their way to fame, not to mention a I rating, a II rating and two III's at the State Music Festivals. There were also some individuals who entered solo competition and came home with two II ratings and two III's.

In addition to this impressive record, they sang for several school programs and the PTA. They also sang with the boys' glee club at Christmas, when they serenaded the shoppers with Christmas carols.

Several members of this class played parts in the musical, "Get Up and Go!"

THE TRIPLE TRIO received a I rating at the state contest for the second consecutive year.

A RATING of III was given the girls' trio A.

THE TRIO B received a II rating.

IN SOLO COMPETITION, Georgia Perkins (front) received a II and Julia Haskett a III, Leslie Smith a II and Eileen Gitchel a III.

SOLOIST Tom Debey received a III at the State Music Festival.

Boys Vocalize

The boys' glee club sang at PTA, Baccalaureate, the Athletic Banquet, the State Music Festival at Concordia, the League Music Clinic at Woodston, and were on the radio at Phillipsburg at Christmas time singing carols. Also, they joined with the girls' glee and the band to produce the musical "Get Up and Go".

In the State Music Festival, where they received a IV rating, the boys sang "No Man Is An Island" and "Jamaica Farewell". They showed their enthusiasm by volunteering for quartets, sextets, octets, and solos, which kept Mr. George Belden, their director, busy.

THE BOYS' octet sang for many events, including Baccalaureate.

SHERRI Baker accompanied the boys' and girls' glee clubs and ensembles.

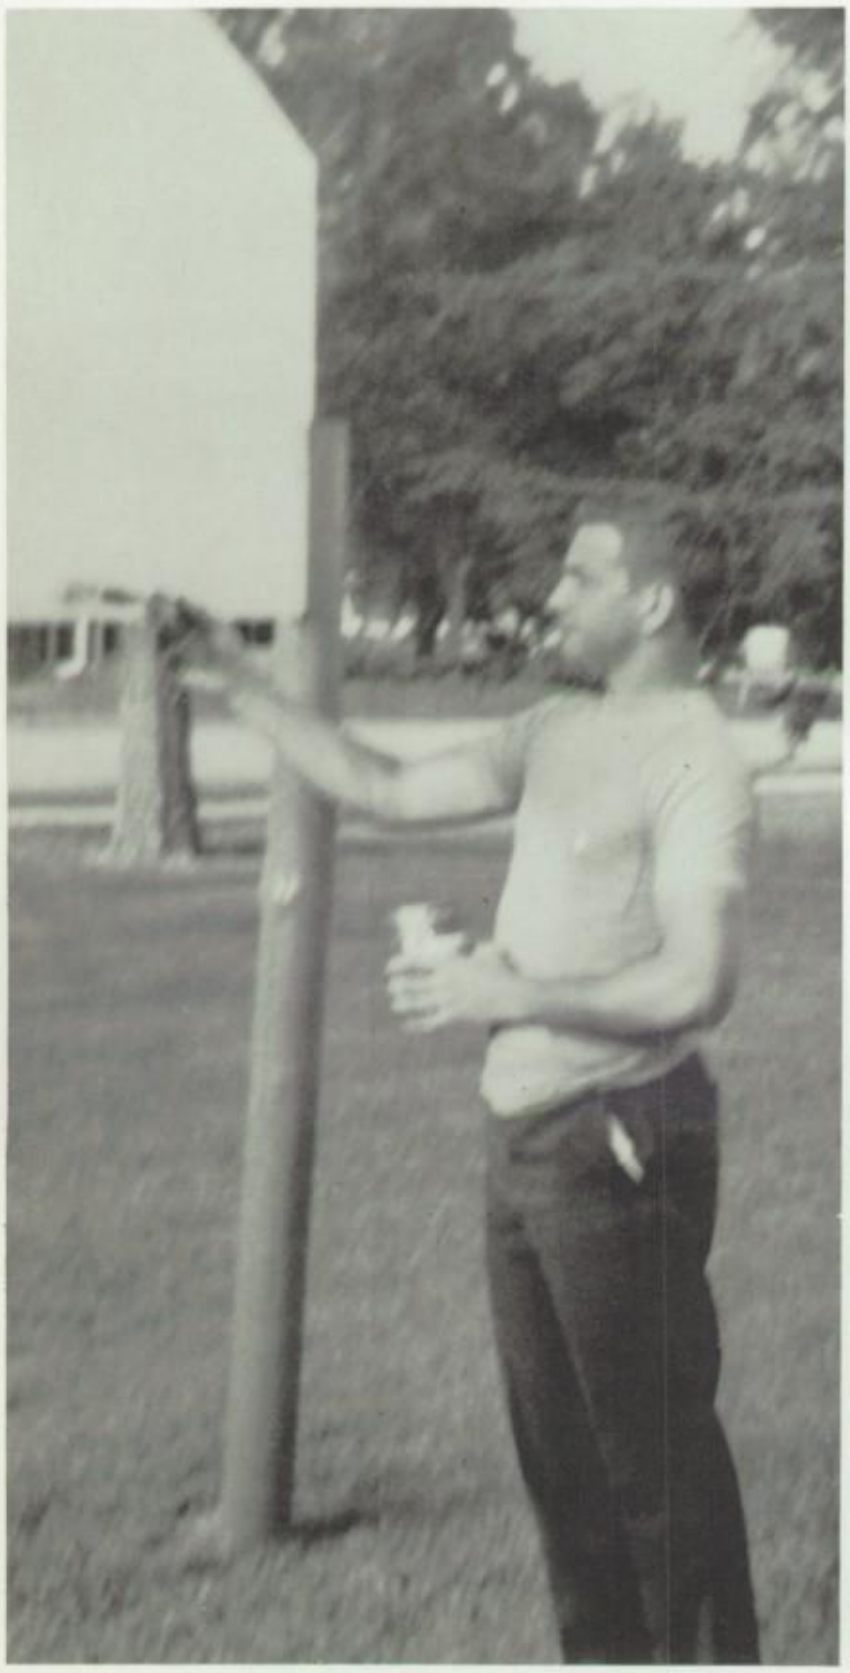
HAVING RECEIVED a IV rating at the State Music Festival, the boys' quartet sings.

Student Council Leads School

Everything, whether it is a school, an organization, or a business needs a guiding body. This function was capably filled at Eastern Heights by the Student Council. The members of this organization were chosen by the classes, organizations and student body at the end of the 1966-67 term. The officers were then elected by the student assembly after a week of active campaigning.

Among the projects which were undertaken by the Council was the repainting and re-lettering of the school sign in front of the building. They also sponsored the many dress-up days and sloppy-days and got open noon hours for the students on these days.

The many hours of work which were put in by the Student Council were greatly appreciated by both the students and faculty of Eastern Heights, and they are to be commended for both their spirit and their actions.



PAINTING THE SIGN outside the schoolhouse was one of the duties of the student council. Terry completes his turn with the paint brush.

STUDENT COUNCIL officers were Terry Merrifield, president, Carol Bradley.

Kayettes Host Conference

The Eastern Heights organization was honored to host the annual conference, when all Kays and Kayettes from the area gather to discuss recent and proposed service projects and other subjects of group interest.

In addition to this the Kayettes sponsored several projects of their own. These included CARE and UNICEF donation drives, an Easter egg hunt for the kindergarten, greeting and Christmas cards for the faculty, cooks, custodians and bus drivers, and a flower donation to the old people's home at Kensington.

They also did much work in the area and at school. This included a school clean-up in which lockers, halls and trophies were all cleaned, PTA babysitting, Teacher appreciation projects and painting the bleachers at the football field.

To finance these and their many other service projects, the Kayettes held a soup supper and both played and served at a powder-puff football game.

PEELING CARROTS and potatoes for the Kayette soup supper was a chore of doubtful enjoyment.

AFTER THE Kayette Conference refreshments were served to the delegates from other schools.

Pep Club Boosts Mustang Spirit

This year, as every year, the Eastern Heights teams were encouraged by the consistent backing of the pep club. This organization, which is formed each year to promote school spirit, pep and enthusiasm, was always present at the games. It was of no importance that the night was too cold or hot, or the distance that was traveled to see the game. For each game most of the girls went to cheer their team on.

In addition to their participation at games, the pep club also sponsored several events, including the Homecoming program and dance. To finance these and other activities the pep club sponsored football and basketball concession stands.

COLD WEATHER never cooled the enthusiasm of the pep club girls as they cheered for their team at football games.

THE PEP CLUB OFFICERS for 1968 were Lynn Otis, vice-president and Jill Blackburn, treasurer. Janet Munyon, standing, was president and Mrs. Fischli was co-sponsor. Sherri Baker, who is not pictured, served as secretary.

PLANNING DECORATIONS FOR the Awards-Athletic Banquet are the Mustang Club officers. Kevin Abbott, president, shows his idea to Warren Larick, secretary, Robert Rahjes, treasurer, and Kevin McDowell, vice-president.

"M" Club Cooperates With Student Council

While striving to instill school spirit within the students at EHHS, the "M" club participated in several activities. Working with the student council, the lettermen co-sponsored the Valentine's Dance.

A hayrack ride was held on May 18 for the lettermen and their dates. Starting at the Kirwin Community Building, the hayracks drove to Kirwin Lake where a supper of grilled hamburgers, potato chips and pop was waiting. After riding the hayrack another hour the students returned.

DURING THE PROGRAM, at the Athletic-Awards Banquet, Kevin Abbott told what athletics had meant to him.

THE A-TEAM cheerleaders proved to be a tower of strength for our teams in all their endeavors. The girls, (from left to right) Kaye Bradley, Doris Matteson, LeAnn White, Kay Wyley and Mary Nedrow, all did their best to boost team morale and inspire the players to greater efforts.

EXCITEMENT AND enthusiasm are built to a peak during basketball and football games.

Cheerleaders Build Enthusiasm

Two groups of cheerleaders strove to inspire our teams to victory this year. The A-team cheerleaders, Kay Wyley (head cheerleader), Doris Matteson, Mary Nedrow, Kaye Bradley and LeAnn White, guided the Pep Club's efforts during football season by heading lusty cheers with much encouragement and energy. They came up with new cheers for games and pep rallies and planned the outline of each pep rally in advance.

With the coming of basketball the ranks of the active cheerleaders were bolstered by the addition of four C-team cheerleaders, Anita Abbott, Carol Bradley, Janice Schmidt and Darlene Elliott. Anita was also chosen as the A-team alternate. The girls led cheers for the basketball C-team and also participated actively in the pep rallies.

C-TEAM CHEERLEADERS: Carol Bradley, Darlene Elliott, Anita Abbott, Janice Schmidt.

. . . SPORTS

On September 15, the Mustangs traveled to Luray for the season opener, but were downed by the powerful Panthers. Taking this defeat in stride, the Mustangs bounced back to defeat Morland on the home field.

Bogue was held to a scoreless tie on their home field by the Mustangs in their first league game of the season. Several players on both teams had to leave the field because of injuries. After a week's layoff, the Mustangs lost their homecoming game to the Alton Wildcats. For the next two games EHHS traveled to Esbon and Norcatur, respectively.

The Mustangs were shut out in both games, but Vernon Bailey was taken to the hospital with a concussion during the Norcatur game. Besides losing a home game to the Woodston Coyotes, Kevin McDowell left the game with a broken finger. The Mustangs finished the season on November 10 with a loss to Stamford, Nebraska.

With eight returning lettermen, the Mustangs have high hopes for next year.

Thinclads Have Successful Season

Although little emphasis had been placed upon track in the preceding years at EHHS, this year the individuals in competition represented the Mustangs well. Starting the season slowly, Eastern Heights won few points in the first meets, but soon gained momentum.

Having won the second place league trophy, it is proudly displayed in the trophy case.

Music Department Produces "Get Up and Go"

The first Eastern Heights Musical comedy, "Get Up and Go" was presented on March 15 and 16, 1968. The musical, which was presented by the combined music departments was held on both nights to accommodate the large turnout.

The action centered around two old-fashioned schools, one for boys and the other for girls. When several students try to unite the schools by means of an unknown uncle, trouble starts. All turns out well, however, when the two principals of the schools eventually marry.

THE HARD FEELINGS between the two schools increases when Mr. Lister catches two girls crawling through the hedge.

BAND STUDENTS MADE the backgrounds and props for most of the musical. Here Sue Dix, Debbie Christy and Mike Losey paint the hedge.

EHHS Hosts League Dramatics

THE ONLY INDIVIDUALS to go to the state contest, Connie Wallace and Leslie Smith received a III and a II rating respectively.

Eastern Heights was well represented at the League, District and State Speech and Drama Festival this year. Thirteen girls presented readings or interpretations or were in the one-act play.

Our school was proud to host the League Festival, which was held this year for the first time. All the schools in the league sent representatives for the event.

"Aunt Samanthy Rules the Roost"

The Junior class proudly presented their play "Aunt Samanthy Rules the Roost" on November 17. The fast-moving action and their presentation of the play made an enjoyable evening for all who attended.

When Polly and Sophie begin to plot for some romance in their lives by putting a love potion in lemonade, the play's action starts. After the wrong people drank the lemonade, everyone had a confusing time getting things straightened out.

THE LAST SCENE of the play closes as three mental patients, Captain Kidd (Ozro Sanders), John D. Rockefeller (Samuel Hodges), and Napoleon (Joseph Posey), conspire to travel to France and win the battle of Waterloo.

SUPPORTED BY his nurse, Hannah Mulligan, and his mother, Willie slowly walks from the car to a couch where he rests before going to his room.

WILLIE'S MOTHER gives directions for the care of her invalid son.

WILLIE SPENDS most of the play moaning until he falls in love.

Seniors Present "Willie's Weekend"

The 1968 Senior Play was held in the Eastern Heights High School Auditorium on April 5. The comedy, "Willie's Weekend", centered around the supposedly convalescent Willie Winkle.

Willie's mother decided to take him to a rest home for the weekend so that the redecorating of their home wouldn't bother him. Willie is pleasantly surprised to find that he has three very attractive nurses.

Abandoning his illness as soon as his mother leaves, he soon becomes very friendly with one of the nurses, Eva Wood. On his last night he plans to take her to a dance, but is without clothes.

A merry mixup involving "borrowed" clothes, "stolen" cars and a ransom note by a mental patient finally ends with Willie and Eva married and the mental patients planning a world honeymoon.

. . . DANCES

Mary and Kevin Reign Over Homecoming

On October 29 Mary Nedrow and Kevin Abbott were crowned Homecoming Queen and King at the Alton vs Eastern Heights game. The first attendants were Janet Munyon and Vernon Baily and Peggy Johnson and Robert Rahjes were second attendants.

Following the game was the annual Homecoming party. The party consisted of dancing and refreshments. During the course of the party active photographers kept their flash bulbs popping as they took pictures of the royalty.

The ceremony of crowning the queen took place at the athletic field at the half-time of the game. The remainder of the coronation and the following dance and party were moved to the Eastern Heights gymnasium where the Pep Club were in charge of the activities.

Refreshments were served during the dance.

Throughout the dance the newly crowned royalty sit at their thrones.

Mr. Mosier crowns King Kevin at the half-time ceremony.

After the coronation the Agra and Kirwin students and alumni enjoyed the dance.

Silver Bells

MRS. REDINGER serves Prince Robert and Princess Peggy by candlelight.

Because of stormy weather, Eastern Heights' Christmas party was held Monday, December 18, instead of the original date, December 16. Despite the snow outside, the atmosphere was that of spring as green and silver streamers hung from the walls and ceiling, and ivy trailed down the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. George Belden sang "Silent Night", "Changes", "Pretoria", and other assorted folk songs, accompanied by Mr. Belden on the guitar. When they finished, Santa Claus appeared and distributed the gifts from the student and faculty gift exchange. Sherri Baker played Christmas Carols on the piano as Santa did his duty.

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the prince and princess. Robert Rahjes was named prince, and smiles were everywhere as he crowned princess Peggy Johnson. First attendants were Anita Abbott and Terry Merrifield, second attendants were Janice Schmid and Joe Goracke, and third attendants were Georgia Perkins and Mike Losey.

Cakes and punch were served by the Kayettes.

The romantic and soft music put everyone into the mood of dancing.

Fantasy in Hearts

The "M" Club and Student Council sponsored the 1968 EHHS Valentine Party. The theme, "Fantasy In Hearts", was brought to life by pink and white in forms of cherubs, hearts and streamers. During the course of the party there was dancing, games, and refreshments. To sponsor this event the groups worked at the concession stand at the Esbon basketball game.

Prom Is Social Highlight

The Junior class presented the Junior-Senior Prom and Banquet, entitled "In the Misty Moonlight" on May 4, 1968. A fine meal was served by the Sophomores, who then provided entertainment in the form of several musical numbers. Then the members of the Junior class read their versions of the Senior Class Will and Prophecy and sang "Moon River".

After the Banquet a Prom dance was held. Entertainment was provided by "The First Nationalists", a musical group from Hays.

EVERYONE enjoyed the music provided by "The First Nationalists"

USING the entrance bridge as a stage, Kay Wyley and Carol Bradley sing "Moon River" as part of the Banquet program.

The Final Accomplishment

GRADUATING class and administration listen attentively to Mr. Bob Schmidt, the guest speaker.

EVERYONE stood as the seniors solemnly ascended to the stage for the graduation ceremony.

On May 23, 1968, all the EHHS seniors proudly accepted their diplomas. The stage was decorated in blue and white, the class colors, with vases of white roses, the class flower, provided beauty. "They Conquer Who Believe They Can" was the class motto.

All high school students, from freshmen on up, look forward to the day when they will receive their diplomas. But when the event occurs, most students aren't as sure they're ready to graduate.

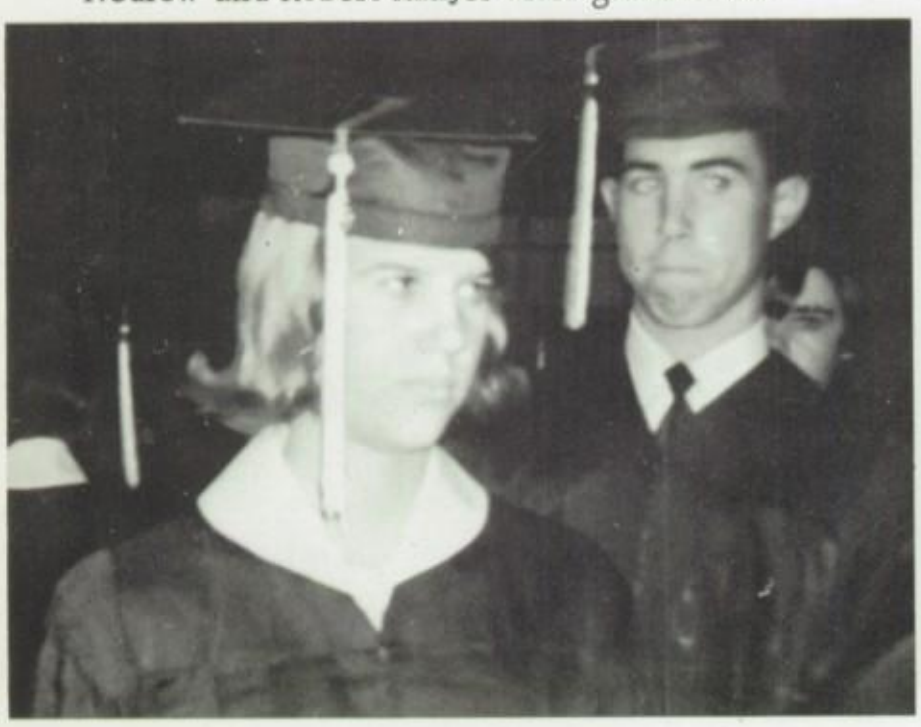
This happy-sad occasion started as the graduating class marched down the aisles to "Pomp and Circumstance". After reaching their places upon the stage the benediction was given, then Mr. Robert Schmidt gave the graduation address. Mr. Schmidt is vice-president of KAYS in Hays and KLOE in Goodland.

Next came the presentation of diplomas. Each student was greeted with a smile as Robert Mosier, superintendent of schools, and Carl Rogers, president of the school board, presented his diploma.

After receiving their diplomas, the seniors lined up for the symbolic cutting of the ribbons by Mr. C. A. Schamber, principal.

Baccalaureate was held Sunday evening, May 20. Reverend Don Macy gave the invocation and benediction, and Reverend Harold Ellis was the main speaker. The boys' glee club and the boys' octet sang.

MIXED EMOTIONS play over the faces of Mary Nedrow and Robert Rahjes after graduation.



DURING THE processional, Kevin Abbott looks sad as he takes his last walk as a senior.

Mustang Staff Works Hard

Many long hours were put in by the members of the MUSTANG staff. With the staff members working hard in the last few weeks before the final deadline the final layout was completed. Special thanks should be acknowledged to Mr. and Mrs. Ron Fischli and Mr. C. A. Schamber, whose advice and help made this book an actuality instead of just an idea.

The staff for the 1968 MUSTANG was the Senior class. Editors and other people of importance were:

Leslie Smith - - - - - Editor-in-Chief
Betty Gower - - - - - - Assistant Editor
Sherri Baker - - - - - Business Manager
Richard Childers - - - - - - - Treasurer
Eileen Gitchel - - - - - Classes Editor
Janet Munyon - - Organizations Editor
Kevin Abbott - - - - - - - Sports Editor
Pat Johnson - - - -Advertising Manager
Myron McCormack - - - Photographer
Mr. C. A. Schamber - - - - - - Sponsor
Mrs. Anna Mae Fischli - - - - Sponsor

THINKING OF THE perfect headline or cutline or layout was sometimes difficult.

WITH THE CLASS working together and giving each other ideas, the yearbook soon began to take form.

CONSULTING WITH ONE of the sponsors, Leslie Smith and Betty Gower plan the order of the pages and decide the basic plan for the book.

AS MYRON McCormack, photographer, aims the camera, Mr. Schamber helps him focus it.

. . . FACULTY

Teachers Lead Educational Experiences

The smiling teachers that were recognized and appreciated by the students of Eastern Heights Grade are found on these two pages.

Mrs. Mary Grace Nedrow taught kindergarten at Agra. Although she only had a half day to work with the children, her work was very well done.

Mrs. Carol Jones and Mrs. Roberta Wilford taught the first and second grades in the "little schoolhouse," in annex to the main building in Kirwin. The students in these grades learned their ABC's, and also began to read.

The remaining teachers taught in the main building at Kirwin. Miss Alma Mousley instructed the third graders in spelling and their multiplication tables. Mr. Wayne Swisher taught the fourth graders division and fractions. The fifth graders learned about geography, from their teacher Mrs. Marie Stockman. Mrs. Edna Kaiser taught the sixth graders basic sentence structure. Mr. Charles Webb helped the seventh grade students learn more about Kansas History. The eighth graders wrote compositions for Mr. Dee Webb.

Mrs. Vivian Bronson taught special reading at both Kirwin and Agra. Her efforts to help slow learners and improve everyone's reading skills were greatly appreciated.

KEEPING THE school building clean requires daily care by George Stroup, Faye Stroup and Jim Lemon.

Dedicated People Keep School Functioning

Starting bright and early each morning the cooks and janitors of Eastern Heights Grade began work by sweeping floors and starting to prepare the fine meals. Also each morning the American and Kansas flags had to be raised.

By ten o'clock the delicious aroma of cooking food was causing hunger pangs in most students. After dinner the cooks washed and dried the dishes while the custodians became active again. Classrooms which were only to be used in the morning were cleaned and dusted. When all the students were turned free until morning, the janitors began to clean all of the hallways, rooms and other areas of the building.

The bus drivers, who were indirectly responsible for the work the cooks and custodians had to do, picked up the students every morning. Without these dedicated men no meals would be necessary, and there would be no mess to clean up on wet days.

WAYNE ANDERSON was one of the bus drivers who put up with noisy students and paper wads.

EARLY EACH MORNING Charles Smith started on his bus route to pick up the students.

. . . CLASSES

Eighth Graders Are Scientific Minded

Astronomy opened a new world of star gazing to Mr. Dee Webb's eighth grade class. They made star charts of various constellations and their positions in relation to each other.

From these immeasurable areas they went into the world of millimeters, liters and grams to study the art of measurement.

Also in science they set up and operated labs on plants. These included projects ranging from fire weed to tobacco. This work was used as a basis for the study of hydroponics, pholatropism and geotropism.

In English the whole class participated in writing limericks, short stories and other literary projects.

Students Adopt Ship

The seventh grade saw an active term by adopting a merchant Marine ship, "The African Moon". Mr. Charles Webb and the class learned a great deal from this experience. The captain sent them many informative letters which were of great interest to everyone.

They also had many interesting projects in science class, among which were making periscopes, constructing pinhole cameras and others utilizing light.

In English class they learned the fundamentals of speech and speechmaking.

The shop and Home Ec. classes learned that building projects and baking cakes aren't as easy as some people had said.

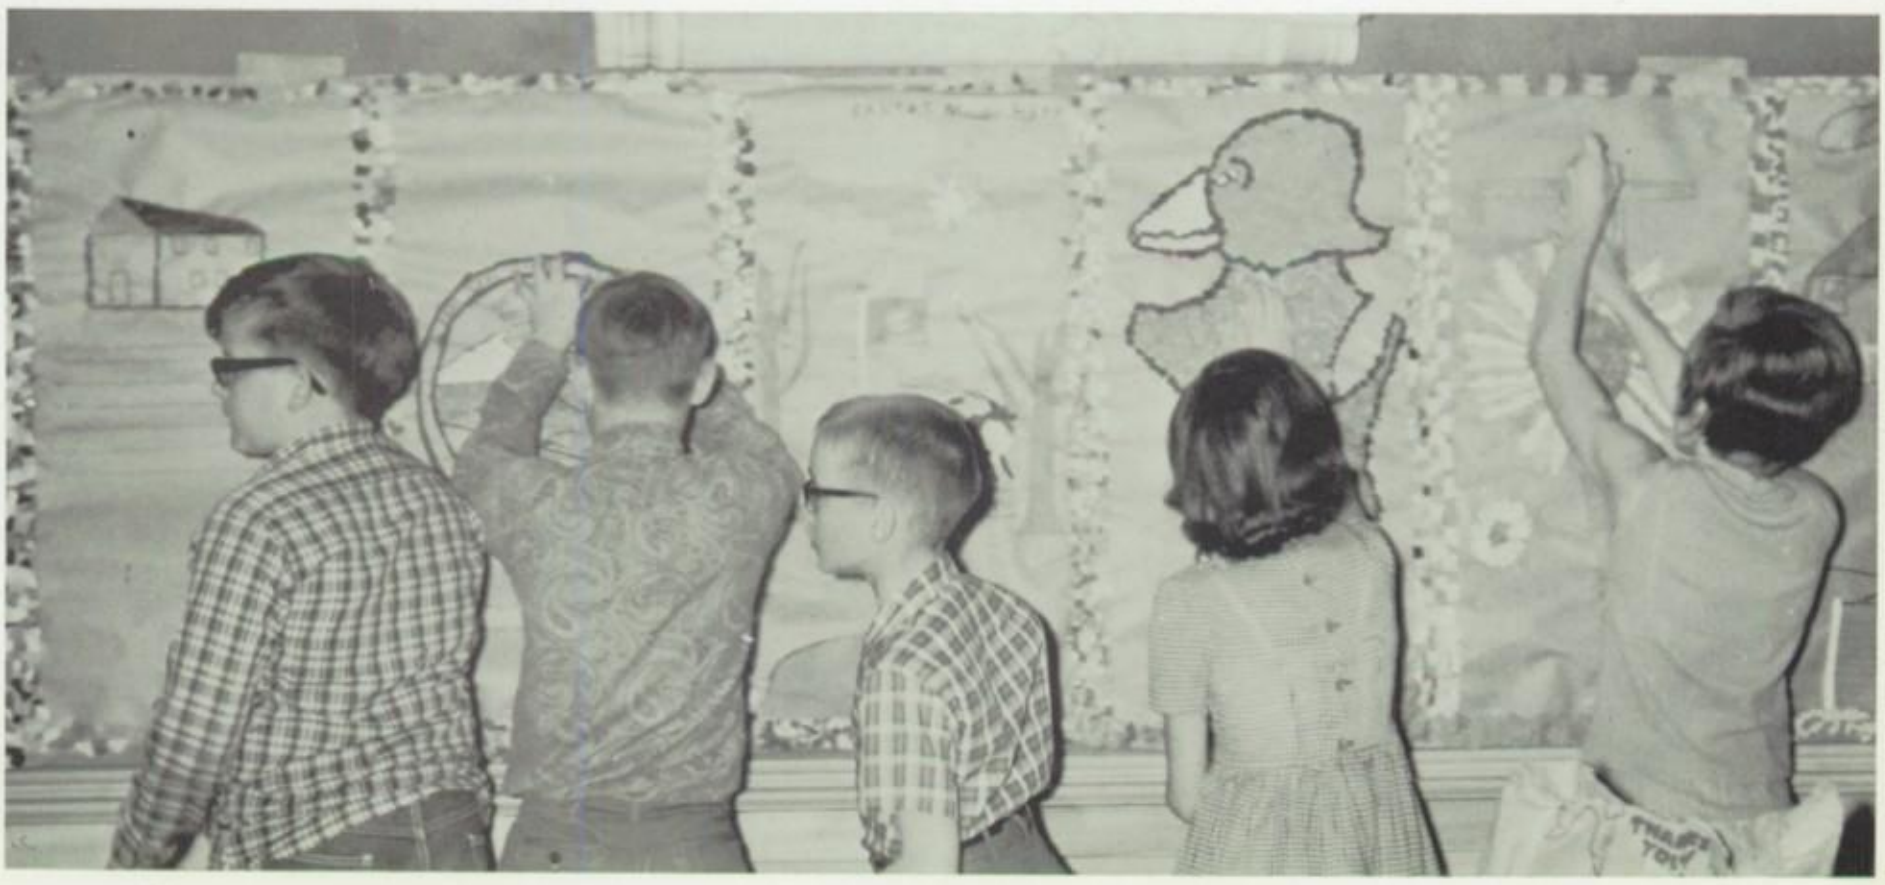
Sixth Graders Study Science

Mrs. Edna Kaiser supervised the various activities of the sixth grade and helped the learning process to go more smoothly.

Science was one of the busiest subjects for the sixth graders. During their study of molecules they constructed models of clay, with these models they could visualize what molecules really were.

BY CONSTRUCTING a "Story of Kansas" board from scraps of paper and other material, the class learned much about our state and its history.



Math Occupies Fifth Grade Minds

One word can sum up the fifth grade arithmetic class; fractions. Most of the students came through no worse than the ones before them, but for a while they and Mrs. Marie Stockman were beginning to wonder whether they were taking math or it was taking them.

The students also constructed a bulletin board, and tried writing poetry. In English class they published a newspaper containing facts about the grade school.

Their History Class traced the progress of Americans from the pilgrims to the present day. They made a mural to show man's progress in space exploration.

Fourth Graders Complete Busy Year

Mr. Wayne Swisher helped the fourth grade students reach their goals in learning.

He helped them gain knowledge about other countries and their ways of life as well as our own. These students learned the parts of the body and how they function, also they learned about animals. They were taught the proper use of words in English, and certain words in Spanish.

DURING RECESS the 4th graders enjoy themselves playing dominos and other games.

Books Fulfill Third Grade Curiosity

Books and rocks caught the interest of the third graders. Miss Alma Mousley helped them to sort out and catalog author cards for all the books in the class library. From this the students learned about the functions of the modern library.

For a science project they collected, compared and studied rocks brought by the students. They made various room decorations for different holidays.

Science Projects Consume Second Grader's Time

CLIMBING IS one of the many activities of the Second graders.

The second graders, under the guidance of Mrs. Roberta Wilford, enjoyed the year making totem poles and masks for a geography project. This was to aid their study of the state of Alaska. Also in geography they learned about the state by drawing maps of the U.S. and Kansas.

They studied traffic signals and their meanings in English, by drawing pictures of signals and making traffic rules to go along with them.

An insect collection constituted their major Science project, and included such specimens as praying mantis, butterflies, and bees. Magnets and the study of magnetic force also occupied much of their science classes.

Students Gain New Experiences

The first graders, most of them just beginning their first venture into the world of education, had Mrs. Carol Jones to guide them. These students were soon to find out that there were many problems that they were going to have to cope with.

They discovered the thought-provoking problems of arithmetic and tried their hand at shaping the English language. In writing, those that didn't know how, learned to print their names. Moving swiftly, they followed the adventures of Tip and Mitten in their readers. The students used phonetics to learn the major letter and word sounds.

FIRST GRADERS practice diligently for future games.

Kindergarteners' Kaper

RHYTHM instruments provided active music participation.

PARTIES added fun to the beginners school year.

Mrs. Mary Grace Nedrow led the kindergarten through their first year. Beginning their educational career, the students learned the basics - numbers and alphabet.

On Halloween the children paraded through the school rooms in their various costumes. Christmas season, too, was brighter when they added entertainment to the Christmas program.

During the year these students added much to everyone's school day. Almost every student passed the kindergarten room had a pair of little arms thrown around them or a hand slipped into theirs.

AFTER much practice the kindergartners entertained at PTA and other events.

RECESS was as welcome to these students as it is to any others.

Grade Band Marches

The Eastern Heights Grade School Band, under the direction of Mr. George Belden, was divided into two separate groups. The first and largest was the main band, which was made up of sixth, seventh and eighth graders. This band marched at the Old Settler's Day parade and performed for the Grade Music Festival. In addition several members took individual numbers or worked in ensembles.

The second band was the beginners' band. This group was made up of fifth graders who were just learning to play. These students enjoyed learning the different notes, reading music and beginning to play simple songs.

Pep Club Promotes Spirit

The Eastern Heights grade school pep club had good reason to cheer their team on. During basketball season the teams which they backed wholeheartedly responded with vigor.

The grade pep club was led this year by four young ladies who spent much time and practice working with the other girls to work up new cheers and pep rallies. The cheerleaders, Terri Ross, Terri Baker, Janice Ehm, and Virginia Kincaid, devoted their efforts to inspiring the Colts to victory.

In addition to their work at games and pep rallies, the girls in the pep club worked in the school on game days to instill spirit and a feeling of pride in their school. Through such things as hall decorations and cheers during the day the excitement was built to a peak before the games.

Their efforts were rewarded at the end of the season when one of their teams captured first place in league play.

EHGS CHEERLEADERS were Terri Ross, Terri Baker, Janice Ehm and Virginia Kincaid.

Last Year of Parent-Teacher Association

The P.T.A. meetings were held the first Thursday of every month at 7:30 p.m.

The officers for the 1967-68 school year were: President, Mrs. Donna Van Eaton; Vice-President, Mrs. Janet Hoverson; Secretary, Mrs. Coleen Gale; Treasurer, Mrs. Marie Haskett.

The P.T.A. had some very interesting programs this year, including simulated classrooms, a talk on good school boards, a parents' band, tumbling shows featuring the grade school tumbling class, and Senior Recognition in which the P.T.A. presented each senior with a gift and each senior told his or her plans for the future.

On February 23 the P.T.A. sponsored a Basketball Circus, which involved many members and school children. The first and second grades competed against each other, the third and fourth graders played each other, the fifth and sixth grade boys stood their fathers, and the seventh and eighth grade girls against their mothers and friends. The P.T.A. receipts were $315.95, which they used to buy new equipment for the schools. They purchased three movie screens, a stereo, a small record player, and two weight scales.

As of this year, the P.T.A. of District No. 324 has been disbanded. For the 1968-69 school year, there will be a local organization called the Society of Teachers and Parents.

. . . And So, in Closing

As the Eastern Heights 1967-1968 school year and this book end, I would like to say that this is only a chapter of our school's and the students' lives. This chapter is dedicated to the people who made it possible - the people who participated in the school's events.

Without the help of several people this book would never have been published. At this time I would like to thank all those staff members who were willing to stay up at night to finish pages in order to meet deadlines. I would especially like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Fischli for their advice, Mr. C. A. Schamber for his supervision, and Richard Childers and Betty Gower who wrote copy, laid out pages and did a little of everything else to help finish this book.

It is my sincere wish that with each year the 1968 MUSTANG becomes more precious as a round-up of the happenings of a wonderful year.
